EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

A Virginia duel between Mr. Tilden and John Kelly would be interesting.

JOHN KELLY is the Parnell of the Democracy. Tilden should imprison him.

IT looks very much as if Pennsylvania would go Republican as usual this year.

THE Republicans of the country, by a rising vote, decree a grand bounce for George C. Gorham.

THE American Eagle seems to have discovered a long lost and strawberry-marked brother in the British Lion.

WHY do not some of the blood-thirsty Northern Democratic editors who are in favor of duelling challenge John Kelley?

THE Democratic Senators are said to be so enraged at Judge Davis that they talk of ostracising him. That would be a solemn performance.

PRESIDENT Arthur was hardly out of sight of Washington when a Cabinet architect appointed an entire new Cabinet composed exclusively of Stalwarts. That was a fine stroke of business.

GENERAL apathy would have prevailed to such an extent in this state, had not Wolfe entered the race, that it would have almost gone by default. The larger the vote the better for the candidates of the Republican party.

IT is evident that the late Mr. Bookwalter intends to make no effort to save himself from speedy oblivion. Not a peep has been heard from him since his defeat. He might at least gratify public curiosity so far as to say whether he still thinks he did it all himself.

A 'prominent Ohio Democrat' is authority for a confession from Bookwalter that his Ohio campaign cost him $100,000. The Democratic Committee say if this is so he must have spent it all himself, for they saw very little of it. Perhaps he thinks he got his money's worth. He has acquired a good deal of reputation, but $100,000 seems a high figure to value that at.

UNCLE Dick Bishop is the only really live Democratic Presidential candidate in Ohio to-day. If Bookwalter had elected himself Governor, all by his own personal efforts, he would have been a formidable candidate, and he undoubtedly took that view himself. But instead of being elected he was buried. Mr. Thurman has been retired and Uncle William Allen is dead. This leaves Mr. Bishop in possession of the field, and a picturesque figure he makes of it.

MRS. GARFIELD has made public through a letter to Colonel Rockwell, her purpose to provide in due season for "an account of the life and an appropriate collection of the literary remains of General Garfield," and the statement made by Colonel Rockwell, in publishing her letter, gives color to the conclusion that Mrs. Garfield intends, if not to write the work to edit it. Few public men—none of the present generation—have left a wife better fitted to enter upon the difficult task of administering his literary estate and placing his life before the world. Through all her husband's career Mrs. Garfield kept even step with his enlarging culture and her poise and control in the sick-room show self-ordered powers which should enable her to give to the world, under her supervision, a fit monument of the American who, better than any other of his own day, typified the public opportunities and the personal life of high American manhood.

Vote for Andrew Gregg.

What a wonderful man Andy Gregg must be! All the debts of the county piled up by defaulting Democratic tax collectors for the last twenty years our contemporary, the Watchman, lays at Andy Gregg's door. He, as commissioner, is to blame for it all, and he is only one of three. The board is Democratic. Why is Mr. Gregg held responsible for it all? Did not the two Democratic commissioners have anything to say? Did they have no hand in increasing the county debt $35,000? Did they have nothing to say when assessments were to be reduced on the property of wealthy men? We believe if the truth was known that they had all the say about these matters, and that the Republican commissioner was not the autocrat of the board; that some would make us believe it true he did most of the work that his associates would put upon him, but when it came to matters to be decided by the board then Andy was the Republican minority and had to take a back seat. We hope that Republicans at least will not be deceived by such sophistry. To all Republicans we would say, if we have half a chance of electing a Republican sheriff let us take it, let no Republican hand be raised to shatter a chance for victory. We would not advise this if we thought the nomination was a bad one. We believe the Republicans have the best candidate in the field for this position. A man of integrity, of experience, of sobriety. A man who will serve the people faithfully and reflect credit upon the constituency that elects him. We have not a word to say against Mr. Gregg's opponent. He is a young man we never heard of until he received the Democratic nomination. He is young and inexperienced. If that is a recommendation, he possesses at least one qualification. He never farmed a county office because he never had a chance, and if the people of Centre county take our advice he will never get a chance.

Andy Gregg needs no recommendation from any one. His name has been as familiar as a household word ever since the county was organized. In its earliest history the name of the elder Gregg (of same name) appears prominent. They have been, both father and son, honored by the suffrages of the people more than once, and no man that ever voted for either of them has cause to blush for any official misconduct of theirs. Why then should not the people trust him again? Why should any one for a moment think of placing an inexperienced boy in so important a position when such men as Andy Gregg are placed before them? We shall see in November whether the electors of this county think more of serving party than they do of electing men who will serve their interest. In saying this we are swerved by no selfish impulse. Those who have a chance to know understand that Mr. Gregg was never a particular friend of this paper. He never seemed to us to be the particular friend of any man or class of men, but in his official acts has seemed to do without fear or favor, knowing nothing but his duty to the trust imposed upon him by the people. If elected to the high office of Sheriff he will, in the same impartial way, tread in the strict line of duty, knowing no man, but recognizing the fact that he is the servant of the whole people. Vote for Andrew Gregg for Sheriff.

THE Watchman thinks Harry Williams should have been a Democrat if he wanted to be Register; that he is a good fellow and if he had been a Democrat he might have been nominated by that party. Now by this our contemporary admits there is nothing against him but his political creed. If the people think the same then he should be elected, for we will not believe that Centre countians are so bound to party that they would condemn a man because he was of a different opinion from some upon the great questions that divide the people of the State and Nation. Will anyone tell us what State and national issues have to do with county Register. It is about time we gave up such foolishness and elected men for our local offices with a view to their fitness for the positions we desire them to fill. Harry Williams is acknowledged by all to be the right man for the place and we believe the people will so decide in November.

THE hundredth anniversary of Cornwallis's surrender was celebrated with ceremonies entirely appropriate, and marked throughout with excellent taste. The present cordial and even affectionate relations between the English people and our own made it a task of some delicacy, perhaps, to give the day its due observance and still to say and do nothing that should be out of harmony with the peculiarly friendly spirit of the time. The President's address and his order to salute the British flag fulfilled completely the ideal of the occasion. The address, while it naturally began with a reassertion of the principles whose triumph the victory at Yorktown represented, quickly passed to an expression of the National feeling toward England, strong at all times, but ruling every heart to-day, when the sympathy of the English people and of the Queen in particular, is so fresh in our memories. Of the order given by the President to salute the British flag, 'in the trust and confidence of peace and good will between the two countries for all the centuries to come, and especially as a mark of the profound respect entertained by the American people for the illustrious sovereign lady and gracious lady who sits upon the British throne,' it can only be said that the American people will be thankful to the President for having given, in their name, such adequate, truthful expression of the National good will and gratitude.

THE mud-slingers excuse themselves for their fresh eruption upon Senator Sherman by saying that he is "intriguing" for the Presidency in 1884. That is a pretty poor excuse, and it is not the true one. There are two sources of the attack upon him. One is Stalwart and the other Democratic. The Stalwarts will never forgive him for helping defeat their third term scheme, and the Democrats will never forgive him for securing resumption. Common hatred is the motive of this combination of assailants, and common opprobrium will be the total result of all their efforts. One would think the Stalwarts at least had odium enough to bear now without increasing their burden.

THERE is no doubt about the fact that the most bigoted Democrat of the present day is the Northern Democrat. Take this election of Senator Davis to the Presidency of the Senate for example. The Northern Democratic journals have commented upon it with ludicrous ferosity, and have spared no epithets in venting their anger at Judge Davis. The conduct of the Southern Democratic press has been a great contrast to this. They have treated the subject calmly, saying that after all it makes but little difference, and they really do not see any cause for excitement. The trouble with the Northern Democrats is that their soreness has become chronic.

VIRGINIA seems to be monopolizing all the political excitement. In all other States which are to hold elections in November there is almost perfect quiet. Massachusetts is as quiet as a graveyard, and in New York there is scarcely a sign of a campaign outside of Tilden's Nincompoop Bureau at Albany, which is working away on the old still hunt method. The people are taking little interest in politics, and the danger is that a great many of them won't take the trouble to vote on election day.

EVERY Republican should visit the polls on election day.

EDWARD L. GRAY, the Republican candidate for Recorder, is still away in Maine, where he was advised to go for his health by his physicians. We are glad to learn, however, that he will soon be home again, he having received great benefit from change of scene and climate. This gentleman is well and favorably known to a great many people in this county and will no doubt be supported by many men outside of his own party. If he is elected he will perform the duties of Recorder to the satisfaction of all. He is a good scholar and, as is well known, is the successful editor of the DAILY NEWS, which journal he has by his talent built up from nothing to its present prosperous condition. He is not a native of this county, but came here in 1873, being at that time seventeen years old. He has from that day to the present been engaged in the printing trade, commencing as devil in the Republican office. He worked up through all the various steps to foreman, then editor. When the DAILY NEWS was started by Mr. Byxbe he accepted the position of editor, which position he held and actively filled until sickness compelled him to journey East in search of health. In politics he is a thorough Republican and not in sympathy with rings of any kind. He will not use any unfair means to gain his election or secure a vote. He is with the people in every effort for reform and was a warm supporter and great admirer of our martyred president. As a representative Republican he represents the best part of the party infull accord with the sentiment which moves the honest masses. Vote for Edward L. Gray for Recorder and you will vote for a man who will make a good officer and reflect credit upon the constituency that elect him.

IN England and Wales last year nine-tenths of the passengers, or 450,677,401 out of 550,669,174, and two-thirds of the passenger receipts —$73,750,000 out of $101,200,000 —were from passengers carried at the rate of a penny a mile. It is only nine years since the two-cent system was introduced on English railways, and in that period, while first and second class passengers have remained stationary in their numbers, third class or two-cents-a-mile passengers have doubled. There is a lesson here for roads nearer home. The cheap rate means big growing business and proportionate profits. England and Wales have a population four times as dense as Pennsylvania and three times as dense as New Jersey, but English roads cost per mile twice as much and upward as American, and the average number of travelers to the population is vastly larger here than there. The cheap rate would do more for the railroad companies and to the public it would mean cheap homes.

THERE are mutterings of a suppressed Democratic storm in Ohio. John G. Thompson, who modestly 'claimed' 20,000 majority for Bookwalter a short time before election, is said to be deeply enraged at the defeated candidate because he refused to contribute $2,000 to aid him in supporting a newspaper which he bought to aid in the campaign. This is bad. Thompson had evidently great hopes from Bookwalter's barrel, and thought it would be a good time to buy a broken down newspaper and have Bookwalter boost it with a handsome contrbution. Bookwalter declined to accede to this modest request, and the result is that Thompson has both a defeat and a bad investment on his hands. How many other Democratic editors are there in Ohio whom Bookwalter disappointed in a similar way?

THERE are many reasons why the people of this county should vote for Harry Williams for Register, reasons which we have not the time nor space to enumerate now; but we will say for Harry that he is the prince of good fellows and a native of this county, has lots of friends and is well known to many of our pepole. He is a man of energy and pluck, and like most of our candidates not a politician, but as we have said before, this is to our minds a first-class recommendation. His opponent, Mr. McClain, is a Curtin Democrat in politics and a Roman Catholic in religion. Harry is a Republican in politics and a Methodist in religion. Both men are fully capable of fulfilling the position, so honors are easy. so far as religion and ability go. McClain is a ring politican and has made himself very officious in past contests and feels that he is a power in controlling votes. The nomination was given to him to reward him for past services, and permitted by Meek because he did not want to lose the services of Joe Furey on the Watchman, and as a bone thrown to the Curtin wring to secure their aid to elect the ticket which is mostly made up of men of his selecting. Furey is the man who should have been nominated as every honest Democrat knows, but Joe was sacrificed to party expediency, and he was slaughtered, or allowed to be slaughtered, in the house of his friends. This is well understood by many honest Democrats, who will consequently vote for Harry Williams, and in doing so they will not jeopardize any interest, for a better man for the position cannot be found.

THE Rev. Henry Highland Garnet, Minister to Liberia, will sail soon for that Republic. His appointment to this position may well occasion much satisfaction and reflection. He is of African descent. He has been pastor of a congregation of colored parishioners. He goes to a State of colored citizens. Here are circumstances which give a coup de grace to some of the shallowest and most pertinacious theories with which the world has ever been bored. Dr. Garnet personally and effectually disposes of the doctrine of the inferiority of the negro race, inasmuch as he is intelectually inferior to very few white clergymen. Liberia, which, in spite of many predictions to the contrary, continues to exist, proves that the race is capable of self-government. Finally, the appointment of Dr. Garnet makes havoc of theory that ours is a Government for white men alone. We do not say these things because those who may disagree with us are at all important in number and character, but because we like to have it understood that the world moves, and that there is no falsehood which does not stand a first-rate chance of being refuted.

The New British Minister.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 24.—The Hon. Lionel Sackville West, the newly appointed British Minister to the United States, sailed to-day on board the American Line steamer Indiana for Philadelphia. A distinguished party from Knowsley Hall went out in a tender to bid the Minister farewell. The party included the Earl and Countess of Derby, the Earl and Countess of Galloway and the German Ambassador.

The Wilberforce Trial.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The trial of Miss Mabel Wilberforce, for perjury at the trial of her libel case against Philip, which has been proceeding for several days, has been adjourned until Monday, in consequence of the fainting of the prisoner. Miss Wilberforce, who is defending herself, was about to make a statement at the time she fainted.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 23.—President Garfield's body was quietly transferred this morning from the public receiving vault to Captain L. T. Schofield,s private vault, the finest in Lake View Cemetery.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

For Our Citizens Generally.

The article in Wednesday's NEWS in regard to the car works seems to have attracted a good deal of attention and favorable comment. It seems as though it was the first idea that struck them, and for a time it rather startled them. But they all drifted to the same conclusion—that we ought to be able to conduct the enterprise ourselves, without relying on a single outsider for assistance or favors of any kind. With brains and money a good deal can be accomplished, and for these two great requirements it is not necessary to go out of town to find them. If the business men of Bellefonte allow these works to be closed now for want of their support, they are not made of half the metal we think they are and with which they are credited. The works have now been fairly established and put in first-class running order, and we cannot afford to allow them to stand idle at this time when there is such a great demand for cars and when it is possible to keep them in operation.

But since the question has been opened up, we will take the opportunity of giving a hint to our business men in a matter that is attracting the attention of everyone. It is estimated that about one hundred tons of iron ore are daily shipped out of the county to various parts of the State, where it is manufactured into iron. Now, isn't it just a little bit annoying to see this carried on to so great an extent? Nature has blessed us bountifully by giving us such an abundance of iron mineral; but how little do we appreciate it when our careless indifference invites others to come and carry it from before our very eyes. This is not only taking from the pocket-books of our own people that which justly belongs to them, but every pick that unearths a grain from its hiding place in the earth does so much towards impoverishing the soil, and how many years will it take, at the present rate it is being carried on, until we will have neither mineral or money. This is a question our people should ask themselves now, for it is only a question of time until it will suggest itself, and then it may be too late to rectify. If manufacturers of a distance find it profitable to come here and buy their material and submit to a heavy freightage, certainly we ought to make it profitable when exempt of this additional taxation. There are more ways still in which the capitalists of Bellefonte could build up the interests of our town if they felt so inclined, and at the same time enrich themselves. But it is not necessary at this time to speak of any more, and if this matter is looked after closely we think everybody will be satisfied, for the present at least.

It would be a good idea to call a meeting of the Board of Trade and present this question for its consideration. We have a notion that if somebody would break the ice or start the ball to rolling there would be many to go in and help push the thing along, and we would like to know what one of our citizens is going to make the move.

—An election for the office of a superintendent of the Sunday-school at Valentines' Forge to fill the place of Mr. Alfred Nicholls, recently resigned, was held on Sunday afternoon last. Mr. Hendershot, an employe of the forge, was the successful candidate. He is an exemplary young man and abundantly competent to occupy the position. His efforts will be aided by a large corps of intelligent and able teachers from Bellefonte, and we predict a prosperous future for the school.

—The Republican State and county ticket, with almost no exception, is composed of men of high character, against whom even the most pronounced enemies of the party can make no complaint. The Democratic ticket, on the other hand, is objectionable even as regards the personnel of many of its candidates. Then, Republicans and independent voters, see that your ballots are cast for the men who will be sure to administer county and State affairs in an upright and fearless manner.

Poetry.

"By and By."

"What will it matter, by-and-by,
Whether my path below was bright,
Whether it wound thro' dark or light,
Under a gray or golden sky,
When I look back on it, by-and-by?

'What will it matter, by and-by,
Whether unheloed, I toiled alone,
Dashing my foot against a stone,
Missing the charge of the angel nigh,
Bidding me think of the by-and-by?

"What will it matter, by-and-by,
Whether with dancing joy I went
Down thro' the years with a gay content
Never believing—nay, not I,
Teers would be sweeter by-and-by?

"What will it matter, by-and-by,
Whether with cheek to cheek I've lain
Close by the pallid angel, pain,
Soothing myself thro' sob and sigh,
All will be elsewise, by-and by?

"What will it matter? Naught, if I
Only am certain the way I've trod,
Gloomy or gladdened, leads to God;
Questioning not of the how, the why,
If I but reach Him, by-and-by.

"What will I care for the unshared sigh,
If in my fear of lapse or fall,
Closely I've clung to Christ thro' all
Mindless how rough the road might lie,
Sure he will smoothen it, by-and-by?

"What wi'l it matter, by-and-by?
Nothing but this—that Joy or Pain
Lifted me skyward—helped me to gain,
Whether thro' rack, or smile, or sigh,
Heaven, Home, All in All—by-and-by."

The President.

The church-yard bears an added stone;
The fire-side shows a vacant chair;
Here sadness dwells and weeps alone,
And Death displays his banner there.
The life has gone,—the breath has fled,
And what has been no more shall be:
The well-known form, the welcome tread.
O! where are they? and where is he?

Our Story Teller.

A True Romance.

'Never condemn a person on circumstantial evidence, it is unreliable, even when the circumstances seem to fit into each other like a pair of cog-wheels,' said John T. Morris, who is an experienced detective of Springfield, Ohio.

'Give us a story, Uncle John.'

'Not long ago there resided in Franklin county a wealthy old maid, Miss Sabina Smith. By inheritance she was the possessor of a large farm, on which was and old fashioned, though comfortable dwelling-house. She was reputed to have a good square bank account.'

'How old is she?'

'Well, on the shady side of seventy, but she had a weakness like all maids, not for kittens, poodles or canaries, but for children. She had raised several orphan girls who are now well settled in life. In 1865 she adopted a six year old, black-eyed girl, bright as a button, named Mollie McCann, whose father had fallen in battle fighting for his flag and country, while her mother, crazed with grief, pined and faded away Mollie soon learned to love her new mother, and from a prattling maid in short clothes and pinafores she soon bloomed forth into a gushing school girl, and at eighteen was the bell of every rustic gathering—the pretty Miss Mollie McCann, over whom the boys raved and the girls envied. To all her admirers she turned a deaf ear, and with a pretty toss of the head, and merry twinkle of her rougish eye, bade them be off and not bother her.'

'Miss Smith was sensible; knew that Mollie would probably marry, and have a home of her own some day, so she neither discouraged her fondness for society nor harped upon the miseries of wedded life in the maiden's ear, but when she came back from the State Fair at Columbus in 1878, and told her adopted mother about the young gentleman she had met, his attentions and good qualities, Miss Smith was not pleased, nor did she hesitate to frown her displeasure and advise her ward to turn a willing ear to the many suitors of the neighborhood instead of seeking in far off fields that which was nearer home.

'But Mollie was like many another, struck on a traveling man, and she carried on a secret correspondence with him through a lady friend for a long time, until at last they were engaged. Miss Smith and Mollie were the sole occupants of the house. The bedrooms were four in number, two of which were used as spare rooms, one occupied by Miss Smith and containing two beds, Mollie occupying one Miss Smith the other. The fourth bedroom was called Mollie's but was only used by her when a lady friend was visiting her. In one of these spare bed-rooms was an old-fashioned bureau and book-case combined, the top drawer of which could be converted into a desk. The back part of this drawer was fitted up with small drawers. One of these small drawers had, from time immemorial, been used as a money drawer. In the summer of 1870 the sum of $355 was missed from the drawer; in the summer of 1880, $200 disappeared mysteriously, together with a quantity of old gold coins, which had been in the family for over a century. On the 20th day of last May, Miss Smith loaned to a neighbor $500 giving him her check and he signing it in her favor. Sickness prevented his presenting the check at the bank at Columbus, and learning that Miss Smith was going to that city on the 30th, he requested her to get it cashed. She did so, and returned with Mollie about dark on that day, having the money all in $100 bills.

'The house was all securely locked down stairs, and Miss Smith deposited the $500 in the secretary drawer, closed the drawer locking it and placing the key in the bureau drawer beneath. She then locked the room containing the bureau, and placed the key under some quilts that lay in a wardrobe in her bedroom before retiring.

'She locked her bedroom door, and she and Mollie retired for the night in separate beds in the same room. The next morning April 1st, the neighbor who had borrowed the money, having a long journey to perform, during which he expected to make a payment on some land purchased, called as early as five o'clock, before Miss Smith and Mollie had arisen.

'Awakening Miss Smith, she took her key from the wardrobe, unlocked the bedroom, then taking the bureau drawer key from the under drawer of the secretary, opened this to find the money gone. She went down stairs; everything was locked and bolted as she had left it the night before.

'Who took that money?'

'That was the question that confronted me. There was no sign of burglary; no lock forced, windows and doors all right. No one else in the house but Miss Smith and Mollie. Of course, I at once examined the girl. She talked freely, said she had always a presentiment that the money would be stolen—in fact had a presentiment that night, but feared to tell the old lady for fear of alarming her. I soon learned that Mollie had a key which fitted the bedroom containing the bureau, hence my suspicions were strengthened that Mollie had arisen in the night, either unlocked the door with her own key, or taken the one in the wardrobe, and securing the money hid it either in or out of the house without awakening the old lady. I finally told Mollie that I should have to search her and make a thorough examination of the house.

'Well,' she naively remarked, 'if you do find any money about the house it won't prove that I stole it, will it?'

'It will be prima facie evidence,' I said.

'I locked her up in her bedroom and began a thorough search; bandboxes pried into, bureau drawers pulled out, cupboards ransacked, and finally went through her own room.

Under the carpet under her bed I found in a compact wad twelve $100 bills. Now the total amount known to be missing was only $1045. Where had the $155 come from? Where had the gold coins gone to? Was the bureau drawer paying interest on its deposits?

'Now I've got you, Mollie, 'I said, as I confronted her.

'Mollie fainted.'

'A bottle of camphor and a little cold water brought her speedily to, yet she sturdily proclaimed her innocence.'

'I didn't take Miss Smith's money; no I did not,' she convulsively exclaimed between her sobs.

'Miss Smith would not allow me to take her to jail, where I reasoned confinement would soon compel her to confess.'

'My work, however, was but partially done, for the gold coins had not turned up.'

'I determined that these coins must be in the house and resolved upon a thorough search from cellar to garret. The cellar disclosed nothing and at last I stumbled upon a small stairway leading to the garret, the door to which was a common trap door, securely fastened by a padlock to which was attached three links of a chain.,

'Give me the key," I said to Miss Smith, 'to that trap-door up in the attic.'

'Oh, no use of looking there, the keys have been lost for over five years, and no one has ever been up there since.' There were cobwebs on the door, but I noticed that over the crack of the door's edge they appeared to have been broken away, caused by the door having been recently opened. With an axe I speedily got the door open and saw large foot prints in the dust.

By the aid of a lamp I followed the course of the tracks over the boards, which lay across the shaky rafters to the farthest part of the garrett where over an old cross-beam hung a pair of old fashioned saddle-bags. The dust on the bags had been recently disturbed. In one of the pockets I found the five $100 bills which disappeared on the night of the 30th of May, the $365 that was missed in the summer of 1879, the $200 that was lost and better than all, the rare old gold coins upon which Miss Smith set such store as an heirloom. I had found the money, but I found $1,200 too much. The mystery deepened. I resolved upon one thing, and that was that Mollie must know something about the money that was hid under the carpet beneath her bed. I talked kindly to her, told her that Miss Smith's money had been found; and urged her to tell me how the $1,200 came under the carpet of her bed.

"You will not believe me if I tell you, but if Miss Smith will go out I will explain, I put that money there; it was my lover's. He had saved it out of his wages and given it to me to keep. I destroyed his letters, for fear aunt would find it out. There's the story.'

"But how did the old lady's money get into the garrett?"

"She carried it there herself. She was a somnambulist and walked in her sleep."

"How did you prove it Mr. Norris? Did the old lady let you occupy the bedroom and catch her?"

"Oh, no. I got the old lady to take off her shoes and stockings and place her No. 6 foot down on a sheet of white paper. With a pair of scissors I carefully cut the exact shape of the old lady's foot, which fitted exactly in the tracks in the dust on the garret boards. Besides that Mollie's foot was much smaller, he only wearing a No. 2½ shoe, and would not fit the track. I also on carefull examination found traces of cobwebs in the frill of the old lady's night-cap, while Mollie wore no night cap. So you see I proved it by both ends—the old lady's head and feet. I explained all to the satisfaction of the old lady; she paid me my money, and I predict a wedding soon at the Smith mansion, with Mollie McCann as the bride."

A Touching Romance.

A poor girl came one day into one of the bureaux of the Mont-de Piete of Paris to pawn a bundle of clothes upon which they gave her only three francs. For fifteen consecutive years she came regularly to pay the interest on this modest sum, amounting to a few centimes, without having sufficient cash to redeem the clothes. The administration, struck by the care that she took to preserve this little deposit of clothing, sought information concerning her, and learned that working unceasingly at her miserable home in a poor little den, this ouvriere in linen, good and honest, was scarcely able to earn enough to supply her daily living, and that in spite of her toils and pains, she had never been able, in fifteen years' time, to raise three francs necessary to redeem her precious little bundle. There was evidently in the conduct of this little woman, so laborious and so good, and yet beautiful, a noble courage which took its course in noble sentiments. They requested her to come before the administration of the Mont-de Piete, and there she was asked to take away without payment the modest bundle of necessaries of which she had been so long deprived. It was then that they comprehended the beautiful spirit of this unfortunate young girl. The little bundle was composed of a petticoat and a woman's fichu of some cheap stuff. Scarcely was it opened when she took these things in both hands and covered them with kisses, melting into tears. This was all that was left to her by her poor mother who had died fifteen years previously, and in order to preserve these precious relics, she had born religiously her pious tribute, as one goes to the cemetery to place flowers upon the tomb of a loved one on a the day of a funeral anniversary.

Wiser Than the Preacher.

The number of the New York Ledger which bears the date of October 15 reached us yesterday, and we find in its columns the following striking article:

PRAYER—A UNIVERSAL INSTINCT.

"There is at present a particularly animated discussion going on as to the province and efficacy of prayer.

"It is very easy for unbelievers to ridicule prayer. They say: 'Does it rain when you pray for rain? Does it stop raining when you pray for sunshine?'

"Then they laugh at the idea that a universe which is manifestly governed by general laws should be influenced by special prayers.

"In reply to all this it might be stated that all spirtual and religious affairs are enveloped in mystery. We see them as through a glass darkly.

"But what seems to us a powerful argument in favor of prayer, and indeed, unanswerable, is the universal instinct to fall down behind a higher power and petition for help and relief under afflictions for which there is no human remedy.

"By the deathbed of our beloved who would not pray?

"Then it will not do to make light of prayer—to attempt to ridicule the whole world on its knees; for alike saint and sinner—the revered pastor and the pirate in a storm—supplicate the same God for forgiveness and preservation."

These remarks on prayer were written by the late Mr. Bartlett and were read by Bishop Clark as a part of his discourse at his funeral, as affording evidence of the deep religious feeling of the deceased.

Candidate Noble Sued in Pittsburg.

A bill in equity has been filed in the United States Circuit Court at Pittsburg against Orange Noble, the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer. The plaintiff is Mrs. J. L. Whitney, and she sues Orange Noble, George H. Noble and others. The allegations in the bill are that the plaintiff's father owned some sewing machine patents and he with others ran the Whitney Sewing Machine Company, in Paterson, N. J. Noble is said to have gotten hold of some stock in the company and obtained a transfer of the property of the company to him by certain of the stockholders under an old mortgage. The factory was moved to Erie and a new company started by Noble. The plaintiff asks to have the property restored to her and to other stockholders.

A Bukno Man Surprised.

A New York paper tells this story: A stocky man with square shoulders, rotund vest, and close-clipped sandy beared, hurried out of the main entrance of the Fifth Avenue Hotel the other morning and started along Twenty-third street toward the elevated railway station. Two bunko men stood in the shadow of a mournful cab horse and watched the stocky man with the close-clipped sandy beard. The habits of bunko men are well defined. When their victim approaches, No. 1 rushes up, and grasping him warmly by the hand, says: "Mr. Johes, of Skeneateles, how are you?" The intended victim, who is possibly Smith, of Penn Yan, tells his name and address to No. 1, who retires with diffidence and blushes, and confides it to No. 2. A little later No. 2 runs up and exclaims, "Why, Smith, of Penn Yan, 'ow are yer?" whereupon Smith promptly affirms that he is enjoying good health, and betrays his mental condition by immediately accompanying No. 2 into a bar room and losing $150 on the spot.

On the bright morning referred to the short and stocky man hurried along, his bristly sandy beard cutting the air sturdily. Bunko man No. 1 jumped from behind a hack, gazed at him for an instant, and then cried, as his face fairly blazed with joy:

"Mr. Farlington, of Hornesville, how are you?"

With this he seized the hand of the stocky man and wrung it as though it were his long lost brother's. The stocky man shook him off and said:

"G'way, g'way. I don't know you!"

"What, are you not Mr. Farlington, of Horn—"

"No, I ain't.

"Well, this is the most astonishing resemblance. May I ask who you are?"

"Yes you may."

"Well, who are you?"

"I'm General Ulysses S. Grant."

A Typographical Injury to Charley Bender.

There are plenty of the "old seminary" boys who will remember Charley Bender, a ten-year old boy, in Knickerbockers, who went from here to California in 1862 with his brothers, Wilson S. and "Punch" Bender. Charley is in busines in Rena, Nevada, now, and was the happiest man in the State until about two weeks ago, when he fell a victim to a typographical blunder. Charley hit upon a scheme to advertise his business, and told the editor of the Reno Gazette to announce that he would give a special premium to the lady exhibiting a baby at the fair most resembling her. The announcement appeared among the fair notes, and read: "Charles T. Bender offers a special premium to the lady exhibiting a baby that most resembles him." Charles went out of the city for several days, and when he came back couldn't understand why the ladies, with whom he had always been a great favorite, looked at their noses when they passed him, and the matter grew absolutely serious when a very intimate lady to whom he offered his hand exclaimed: "Don't you dare to shake hands with me, sir, you vile thing.', It was all made as plain as day when Charley saw the typographical error, and he is not to be blamed for hunting up the editor with his revolver.—Times.

The Dead President's Hat.

To-day P. M. Ainger of this city expressed to his cousin, General L. W. Weaver of Grand Rapids, Mich., the hat worn by President Garfield on the day of his inauguration. Quite an interesting story is connected with this hat. General Weaver made it for President Garfield and presented him with it just before the 4th of March, with the agreement that Garfield should return it to him after wearing it for the season. After Garfield's death he wrote to General Ainger to see about the relic, and after long search, assisted by Private Secretary Brown and Colonel Rockwell, it was traced out and found in the possession of Dan, the President's faithful body servant. It seems that Mrs. Garfield gave it to Dan before leaving the city. Very sadly and reluctantly he turned it over to General Ainger, remarking that he could sooner part with "a brick house." The hat is a beaver and much larger than those usually worn, being eight and one-seventh.

Freaks in High Life.

The elopement of Mrs Gurney with her groom, which scandalized England a century ago, has been paralleled by the flight of Mrs. Grant, of Bodmin, in Cornwall, with her coachman. Major and Mrs. Grant have lived at Bodmin since their marriage five years ago. They occasionally visit Mr. Littlejohn, Mrs. Grant's brother, at his residence, Trewin Sheviock, bringing their coachman with them. It was while on such a visit to Sheviock that the elopement occurred. Major Grant has been in the habit of spending his holidays in Canada, chiefly for the sport that country affords. Occasionally he had been accompanied by his wife, but on his last visit to Canada, whence he recently returned, his wife did not go with him. On Friday morning last the Major and Mr. Littlejohn went out about 5 o'clock for a day's cub-hunting. Mrs. Grant seems to have communicated this intention to the coachman, and soon after the two gentlemen had set out she and the coachman drove off in a light carriage to Torpoint. On reaching the ferry they alighted, and the coachman gave an hostler five shillings to take the carriage back to Trewin House. The boatman says that the couple had with them a box and portmanteau. Mrs. Grant was wearing an ulster; the coachman was "respectably dressed" and not in livery. On getting out of the boat a cab was called, and they were driven off to Devanport Southwestern station. Mrs. Graut was married when she was eighteen and is now twenty-three. Her husband is forty. She leaves behind her two children. She lately became possessed of a considerable fortune in her own right. The coachman is about the same age as Mrs. Grant, and is said to be "a good-looking man." The police have had information of the elopement, but up to the present time no news of the runaways has been obtained.

Beefsteak and Limburgher.

She was a graduate of Vassar, and when she married Julius Augustus Smythe was very much like another youny lady who didn't know chicken from turkey.

However, she told Julius Augustus that she was a very good housekeeper because her mother and grandmother were, and it ran in the family. So, on the strength of this, he went to housekeeping. She bought a sweet little morocco covered notebook and an embroidered market-basket, and carried a gold pencil, wore an æsthetic costume, and appeared like a vision of delight before the magnates of the cleaver at the Central Market.

'Oh, the dear, sweet, cunning little pigs,' she exclaimed, stopping at a stand where several little roasters were on exhibtion. 'I'll take a couple of those; how much are they a pair?'

'Five dollars for two,' was the realistic answer.

'Isn't that rather high? I guess I'll take a yard of beefsteak and a pound of chewing gum instead, and some—oh; yes; some sweet-breads. Julius said he wanted some; nice ones, with plenty of raisins in them.'

Then she started over to a poultry stall.

'Have you any chickens?' she asked the woman in attendance.

'Heaps of em,' was the reply.

'How much do they cost a heap?' she asked in a rather faint voice.

'Half a dollar a piece, mem.'

'Well, send up a piece to my residence,' and she turned to the next stall and picked up some little packages that looked very nice. 'What is this sweet stuff that smells so lovely?' she asked of a red-headed boy behind the door.

'Limburgher, miss, it's just splendid; tastes ever so much better than it smells—have one?'

She took one, and then she asked the boy where they sold quail on toast.

'Ain't any in the market,' answered the young reprobate. 'Mother's gone after a load, though, and we'll send you some as soon as they're in.'

'What are those lovely navy blue berries?' she inquired. 'They'll just match my china. You may send me a bushel.'

Finally she decided to try a quart, which she carried herself in the artistic basket.

Then she ordered some eggs, as she wanted to make an omelet for Julius Augustus.

But she never did, or rather when she got home the omelet was made with a liberal admixture of blueberries, and the front of her æsthetic dress was ruined. Added to this was an odor that sent Julius into spasms and frightened the cat to death. The limburgher had melted.

The Vassar girl did justice to high Spanish and Greek in the examination that ensued, and the next day they burned the morocco note-book and went to boarding.

Cannibals Shipped to Europe.

Captain G. Schweers, of the Hamburg steamship Thebes, who arrived in Hamburg on the 20th from the western coast of South America, has brought with him a strange human cargo. During his passage through the Magellan Straits he obtained eleven 'Feuerlanders'—four men, four women, and three children—veritable cannibals. Some difficulties had to be overcome before he could persuade them to undertake a voyage to Europe, and the problem as to their food on the passage was also the cause of a good deal of anxiety, as it was impossible to lay in a stock of some kindred tribes for their sustenance. The captain reports that he was highly satisfied with their behavior as passengers. At first he laid ordinary cooked meat before them, but the whole company sickened; hereupon they were provided with raw flesh, and they recovered their normal state of health. They were offered tallow candles, at first in fun, but they regarded this sort of food as a very choice European delicacy and the women invariably made their children partake of it. All the members of this curious company showed a remarkable capacity for learning and acquired a number of German and Spanish words and sentences with facility and employed them to good purpose. The visitors are to be sent to Paris first, where they will be exhibited—or will exhibit themselves we should, perhaps, rather say—to their civilized brethren in the Jardin of d'Acclimatation. They are next to be forwarded to Hamburg and after a short stay in that city they will make the tour of the great cities of Europe. —London Globe.

Romantic Elopement.

Miss Allen, the 17-year-old daughter of a well-known resident of Mansfield, Tioga county, Pa., has for a year past kept company with George Clark, and the courtship resulted in an engagement. Of late the girl's parents have shown much opposition to the match, and Clark was forbidden the house, but he met Miss Allen in public places, and frequent meetings were arranged at the house of a mutual friend. At length the couple determined to get married in spite of the parents' objections. The affair was arranged by Miss Kate Beach, and was carried out by the couple, assisted by Miss Beach and George Morrison, a young law student. One day last week Miss Allen attended the county fair with her mother.

On a pretense of going for a drink, Miss Allen left her mother and went to a place where young Clark, Miss Beach and George Morrison were in waiting with a carriage, in which all were taken to the house of Lyman Beach, a relative of Clark, where the marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. E. Morris, of Mainesburg. The same afternoon the newly-married couple came to Mansfield to make arrangements to go on a wedding trip. While they were at the depot in the evening, and just before the arrival of the train which was to take them away, Mr. Allen put in an appearance and after attempting to whip Clark he marched his daughter home and locked her up. The bridegroom, by legal advice, petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus and Associate Judge Retan issued the writ.

Meanwhile a large crowd had surrounded Mr. Allen's house and threatened to rescue the imprisoned bride. At midnight the young husband appeared with a deputy sheriff and the writ. Allen refused to admit them, fearing the crowd outside, but the paper was read and then passed through the blinds. On the day fixed for a return to be made to the writ Allen asked for a postponement until Saturday, and while making arrangement for this Clark went to a hotel near by where his wife had been left and attempted to speak with her, but her father returning interfered and the young bride was hurried into a wagon and driven off. She rose in the wagon, however, and waved her handkerchief at her husband. She was kept concealed until Friday evening when, by a settlement between young Clark and Mr. Allen she was allowed to go with her husband.

Early in the evening people began to suspect that something had occurred or was about to occur. Watching Clark, they saw him drive up to Mr. Allen's residence at about 10 o'clock, and when he returned a few minutes later he had his wife with him. They were met by a crowd of citizens, who unhitched the horse and drew the wagon through the streets headed by the college brass band. Cannons and guns were fired and a general jubilation was indulged in. At the residence of Mr. Clark's father the crowd offered their congratulations, filing past the happy pair, who were stationed in the parlor. The self-invited guests were then handsomely treated at the hands of the elder Mr. Clark.

Lawlessness in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 17.—The residence of John Miller, a respectable planter living in Randolph County was visited a few nights ago by ten or twelve men, who were heavily armed and wore masks. They surrounded the dwelling and called loudly for Miller to come out. Miller was absent. On learning this the mob entered the house, and, taking two boys, aged respectively 15 and 18 years, into the yard, they wipped them in a terrible manner. The youngest boy attempting to escape was fired on, no less than twenty shots taking effect in his body. The desperadoes, after threatening the lives of Miller's wife and daughter, rode away, remarking that at their next visit they would clean out the ranche and kill every one of the family. After they left Mrs. Miller followed them some distance without their knowing it and indentified some of them. No cause for the outrage is assigned. Miller is reported to have reached his family without molestation.

Farm and Iron Ore Mine
AT
ORPHANS COURT SALE

WILL be exposed at public sale on the premises, by order of the Orphans' Court of Centre county, Pa., on Wednesday, Nov. 16th, 1881,

All that messuage or tract of land known as the

JAS. A. McCALMONT FARM

Located in Marion township, Centre county, Pa., about a mile west of Jacksonville and eight miles east of Bellefonte, a first class Nittany Valley Farm, bounded by lands of W. W. Beck, Joseph Long, heirs of John Beatty, and heirs of Thomas Huston, deceased, containing about 193 acres, net measure. 150 acres are cleared and in a high state of cultivation, and the balance of the land is covered with thriving timber.

A good Mansion House, two tenement houses, frame barn, with other outbuildings; wells and cisterns convenient.

This farm contains the celebrated Iron Ore Bank known as the McCalmont Ore, which is of the best quality, analyzing 56 per cent. carbonate of iron, and extensive in quantity in addition to which there are indications of ore of same quality in the fields adjoining, which can be washed from the earth in large quantities. Water 90 feet below the surface.

This farm is located in a good neighborhood, convenient to churches, schools, mills, and within three miles of Howard station on the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad, to which the road descends all the way.

Persons wishing to view this property before the day of sale are invited to call on James S. and Robert McCalmont, who reside on the premises.

Sale at 1 o'clock P. M. of said day.

TERMS.—One-third of purchase money to be paid on confirmation of sale, one-third in one year, the balance in two years thereafter; the two latter payments to be secured by bonds and mortgage on the premises, with interest.

Valuable Farm for Sale.

THE EXECUTORS OF THE ESTATE OF FELIX DALE, deceased, offer at private sale a Farm situate at seven miles southwest from Bellefonte, containing 162 Acres, more or less, of the very best limestone land, about 30 acres of which remain covered with good timber, mostly of white oak.

The improvements are a two-story Dwelling House, roomy and commodious with cellar and vault, basement kitchen and pantry; well and cistern near the door; oven-house, smoke-house and tool-house; a large Bank Barn, with horse-power shed attached; carriage house, corn crib, and other necessary buildings.

Besides an Orchard of choice apples, there are cherries, peaches, grapes, and other fruits in their season.

Spring Creek runs through the place.

IRON ORE.

From surface indications and tests made, it is believed that a valuable deposit of the best iron ore underlies the western part of the farm, needing only to be developed to enrich the owner.

Pleasantly located, with a soil of great fertility, and possessing the advantages of town and country in its proximity to churches, schools, mills, stores and markets, this property will commend itself to any one who is either looking for a desirable and comfortable home or wanting to make a good investment of capital.

HOUSE AND LOT.

An adjoining half-acre lot with a house thereon, will be sold either with the farm, or separately, to suit purchasers.

VARIOUS CAUSES—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak, or sickly hair, on which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its operation, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts. It contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil or color white cambric; yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous.
For sale by all dealers. 12-40-1y 2

New Advertisements.

If you cannot read this print distinctly by lamp or gaslight in the evening at a distance of 10 inches, your eyes are failing, no matter what your age, and your eyes need help. Your sight can be improved and preserved if properly corrected. It is a wrong idea that spectacles should be dispensed with as long as possible. If they assist the vision use them. There is no danger of seeing too well, so long as the print is not magnified; it should look natural size but plain.

It is known to all who have been compelled to resort to the use of Spectacles (notwithstanding they may be perfectly fitted to correct the optical defects), that for some cause, not until recently well defined, their use was attended with fatiguing, smarting, and otherwise disagreeable sensations. This is a universal fact of experience, and has been supposed to be entirely beyond remedy. This disagreeable sensation and disturbance of the eye is produced chiefly, perhaps we ought to say entirely, from the fact that ordinary lenses increase the sensation of heat (to which the eye, more than any other organ or part of the body, is sensitive), as also the actinic or chemical properties of the rays of light.

It is well known that these peculiarities of light are identified with certain colors of each ray; and the point of importance, or without using technicalities, is to construct lenses so that these properties of light shall be neutralized; this can be done by introducing a neutralizing tint into their manufacture, the difficulty of which, however, consists in the selection of a color which shall have this effect, and, at the same time, shall not otherwise impair the lenses for purposes of vision. The

Arundel Tinted Lens

Is designed to effect this purpose. The peculiarity of its manufacture consists in the introduction into the glass of a slight Violet Color, in such manner that the high and low numbers of the lens prepared from this glass, although varying in thickness, are of the same delicate tint and of sufficient power to neutralize the heating and actinic power of the rays of light. Read the following:

[From R. S. Mershon, Esq., Zanesville, Ohio.]

"I have put the Arundels through the following tests:—I placed an eight-inch Arundel, and an eight-inch white lens side by side, sharply focused in the strong sunlight, with their foci directed on the bulbs of two thermometers, and the difference was four (4°) degrees in temperture in favor of the ARUNDEL. Again, I placed the same lenses side by side on a piece of sensitised photographic paper, and the white glass discolored the surface quicker than the ARUNDEL. These two tests prove these two points, viz: that the ARUNDEL intercepts the solar heat-rays and the chemical rays also."

And the following from a Centre county man whose letter can be seen at my store:

* * * "I am very much pleased with the glasses. They have been more beneficial to my eyes than all the medicine I ever put in them."

If you experience any unpleasantness in reading or can't see distinctly, come in and have your eyes tested. I think I have something good for you.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM
OF LYNN, MASS.

DISCOVERER OF
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.
The Positive Cure
For all Female Complaints.
This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, a permanent cure is effected, as thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.
It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.
In fact it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach
It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.
For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of Lozenges, on receipt of price, $1.00, per box, for either. Mrs. PINKHAM freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. FOR STATE TREASURER,

SILAS M. BAILY.

A man who from his youth up has fought the battles of Republicanism in a region where no hope of success could add vigor and zeal to the contest, and with no reward save the consciousness of having served the cause he loved.

A man who has attested his love of liberty and law by services on the field of glory and of blood, who won his promotion in the glorious Pennsylvania Reserves, from Captain to Brigadier, by meritorious service on the field.

A man who stood in the red hell of battle at Brainesville, on the Peninsula, at Gaines's Mill, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg and the Wilderness, and who bore witness with his blood that he loved his country well.

He bears upon his person the rough scars left by the cruel cannon ball, and will carry to his grave the evidence of his patriotism and courage.

He is able and worthy to lead Republicans to victory, as he led his regiment to war.—Speech of Attorney General Palmer in the Republican State Convention.

BELLEFONTE, PA., Oct. 7, '81.

We do hereby certify that we have carefully examined the accounts of John I. Rankin, as Chairman of the Republican Committee for the year 1880, and we find, upon said examination, that his actual cash payments, made on behalf of said committee, are in excess of the money he received as Chairman.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The Yorktown Ceremonies.

YORKTOWN, Oct. 21.—The military review was successfully carried out. All the organizations presented a fine appearance and marched well. The route was about four miles, over broad fields. One hour and twenty minutes was consumed in passing a given point. When the procession reached the grand stand Gen. Hancock and staff road at the head, but then fell out of the line, and with President Arthur, his Cabinet, foreign guests, and other dignitaries reviewed the troops from the stand. General Hancock stated to the President that there were 9,500 men in line. The States represented by the volunteers were George, New Jersey Delaware, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Virginia, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont, Kentucky, Michigan and Connecticut. The President was quite enthusiastic over the magnificent display. The only colored troops in line were two companies from Richmond, composing part of the First Virginia Regiment. They were loudly cheered by the spectators from the North. The weather being so charming, contributed to the brilliancy and success of the review, and the sprinkling of the parade ground prevented the dust being suffocating and blinding as on the previous day. An immense crowd lined the ground over which the troops passed, but sentinels ngalo the line of march kept them back and perfect order was maintained. On the grand stand, to which admission was obtained only by ticket from General Hancock's quarters, besides the President of the United States and members of his Cabinet, Senators, Representatives, Governors of States, General Sherman and staff, the French and German delegations, were a large numbers of other distinguished men as well as ladies. Promptly at ten o'clock the review began. The marching of the troops generally was very fine and excited great interest among the military men and excited loud cheers from the multitude. General Hancock and General Fitzhugh Lee were both loudly cheered wherever they appeared as a tribute to 'the blue and the gray,' and recognition of the fact that both are now marching under the common flag of the common country. The men of Kentucky and Michigan were loudly cheered, as were also the First Connecticut. The Georgia Battalion, which has with them two guns captured from the British at Yorktown 100 years ago, and the regulars that marched from their several stations in the North to Yorktown. The State troops vied with each other in drill and discipline, and the friends of each claim the palm. The regulars excited general admiration.

The camps present a very animated appearance, and frequent guard mountings, drills, dress parades, salutes, calls, courtesies between the different commands, serenades, speeches, social visits, etc., occupy a great deal of time and excite great interest. The raw recruits are having their first taste of soldier life, and the veterans are amusing themselves at their expense in ways which would only occur to old soldiers.

Four pieces of artillery captured at the siege of Yorktowon, and presented by Washington to the Chatam Artillery, of Savannah, are here in the battery of that old organization, and excite the greatest interest. As illustrative of the discipline of some of the volunteers it may be mentioned one of their sentinels refused to let Secretaries Lincoln, Hunt and the Postmaster General enter the grand stand without the usual pass required of every comer. The commander of the armies, the ruler of the navy and the director of the mails of the nation had to be subject to the orders of 'the officer of the day.' Fully ten thousand troops were present during the exercises.

In the afternoon General Hancock gave a reception on board the steamer St. John. Among the guests were President Arthur, David Davis, President pro tempore of the Senate, the French and German visitors, officers of the army and navy, Congress Committee, Governors and other officers of States.

The naval review took place this afternoon and was witnessed by immense crowds from the bluffs. Large barges and steamboats crowded with people, naval vessels covered with bunting, yachts, tugs, sail and row boats with steamers, music from bands and firing of salutes combined to make a scene long to be remembered. The President's party, Congressional Commission, and indeed all the distinguished visitors left this evening and only the army and navy remain. Some State troops took their departure to-night. The remainder leave to-morrow, and the Yorktown Centennial Celebration closes.

Stealing Hospital Dues.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Dr. Hamilton, Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital service, in his report will show that a petty fraud has been discovered in the matter of the collection of hospital dues. He says that not withstanding the equitable nature of the tax imposed and the fact that taxation is entirely for the beneficiaries of the service, it has been discovered that the owners and masters of many vessels were in the habit of defrauding the service out of considerable amounts. This was done by neglect to furnish the names of all the members of the crew to the customs officers. In one instance, while the owners properly accounted for the crew, the broker who was intrusted with the settlement of the account at the Custom House retained more than one-half of the money.

Minnesota Senatorial Caucus.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 21.—The Republican caucus met at 8 o'clock to-night with 108 out of 117 Republican members of the Legislature present. On the first ballot William Windom received 56 votes, Chas. A. Gilman 28, and C. C. Dunn 12. The anti-Windom vote was devided, in accordance with the plan of opposition, to make confusion and prevent a nomination on first ballot. Windom having got a majority, General John B. Sanborn, of St. Paul, one of the leaders of the opposition, moved this nomination by acclamation, which was carried. It is thought Windom will receive all the Republican votes in the Legislature

—Astronomers are on the lookout for the star of Bethlehem, last seen in 1573, when it shone so bright as to be visible by noonday, then fading away assumed various hues until it disappeared. This wonderful star is believed to have been seen in 1264 and 945, and its apparent period extended backward would indicate that it appeared about the time of the birth of Christ. Hence its name. Its place is the constellation Cassiopeia.

—We believe we have frequently stated in these columns that all classes of our citizens patronize Sechler's grocery store, and are consantly becoming more fond of purchasing there. The only possible exception of which we can think to prove the rule is that class known as physicians. They really purchase there for their own use, but some of them who love their profession more than the good of mankind would be pleased to have their patients purchase at other stores. Sechler's groceries are so pure and produce such a salutary effect upon those who consume them that if everybody would give their patronage to Sechler & Co. materia medica would soon become a useless science, and an increasingly large class of individuals would be without a visible means of support.

I Shall Smile.

BELLEFONTE, Oct. 20, 1881,

EDITOR NEWS:

In the Republican of Wednesday, an article from the pen of "Othello," speaks of Mr. Campbell as a Christian, ignoring the fact that the brother-in-law of Daniel Hastings, John I. Rankin, the other Republican candidate is also a Christian.

Let us have fair play. If it be true that Godliness is profitable, and that to seek first the kingdom of heaven will secure for us all things necessary, then John I. Rankin's record as a Christian gentleman must not be kept in the dark—but place it on a bushel where it belongs.

DESDEMONA.

Capturng a Murderer.

John Heeter, the Franklin county murderer, for whom a large reward was offered, has been arrested and is now confined in prison. The charge against him is a very serious one, he having brutally murdered an old man named Jacob Swank by striking him on the back of the head with a large piece of cinder and then mashing his skull with the heel of his boot. The Chambersburg Herald has this to say of his capture: He was taken before Magistrate Jeffries, who committed him to jail for trial at the next term of court, which opens in December. Heeter was captured at the house of a relative in Fulton county, near Licking creek. After the commission of the deed, he followed the mountain down to Cove Gap where he crossed into Fulton, when he was caught. Mr. David W. Jones, a Path Valley farmer, for whom he had worked, followed his trail and succeeded in effecting his capture.

Helen Potter's Pleiades.

The concert to be given by the Helen Potter Pleiades troupe will be given in Humes Hall instead of the Opera House, as we had previously erroneously stated. This excellent concert company will surely be here on Friday night next, and we advise all those who really desire a first-class entertainment not to fail to be present on this occasion. We notice on the programme the name of Leopold Lichtenberg, one of the greatest violinists the world ever knew, and who receives for his services in connection with this troupe the enormous sum of $150 per week. This troupe played in the Philadelphia Academy of Music on Thursday evening last, and the papers of that city speak in the highest terms of the performance. The Philadelphia Press, of a recent date, says of them:

"That a good performance was expected was evinced by the immense audience, not even standing room remaining when the curtin ascended, and the applause received showed that no one was disappointed. Miss Helen Potter, who is unquestionably the most wonderful mimic now living, personated to the life, Susan King, Sojourner Truth, and John B. Gough in characteristic speeches, besides giving several readings all of which were remarkable exhibitions of inherent talent, careful training and close study The Swedish Ladies Quartet was almost beyond praise. Though none of the voices are exceptional in power, compass, volume or quality, all are sweet, human, sympathetic, and all show the results of careful culture. Their numbers were finely rendered, and the singers were twice encored."

A Ministerial Donation.

We learn that Rev. E. W. Wonner and family, of Pleasant Gap, were on Friday evening, the 14th instant, the surprised recipients of a generous and handsome donation, which was conceived in the minds of some of the kindly-disposed ladies at Valentines' Forge and was carried out by them, aided by several of the sterner sex. The procession, which was large in numbers and laden with many of the necessaries of life, invaded the usually quiet parsonage and for a brief period took entire possession of the premises, depositing their precions load of hardware, dry goods and groceries on tables and chairs until the supports of all the furniture in the dwelling threatened to give way. We will not mention all who were there. Suffice to say that good Mother Reese lead the company and kind-hearted Reub. Miller brought up the rear.

After half an hour's complete enjoyment the party again dispersed, leaving the minister and his family in solitude. But they also left behind happy hearts and thankfulness that Providence had put it in the hearts of their friends to give to those who minister to the eternal welfare of the soul. May their kind deeds bring many a blessing upon the generous donators.

He Knew.

On Sunday last a small lad in one of the Bellefonte Sunday-schools was asked by his teacher the question that usually introduces the religious education of all Christian children, "Who made you?" "Why, don't you know that yet?" answered Johnny, in amazement at his teacher's ignorance. "O, yes," said the teacher, "I know, but I want to see if you know it." "Well," returned the precocious youngster, "if you know already I shall not tell you, but will occupy the time in telling you what perhaps you do not know, that Sechler Co., in the Bush House row, sell the finest groceries ever offered in this market. His store is thronged with customors every day, and persons who purchase of them are always pleased. If you would make a few meals off food concocted from these groceries you would perhaps ask questions that are more difficult to answer."

Reliable Insurance.

We hear so much of bogus and fraudulent insurance that it is decidedly refreshing to be informed that there are still in existence companies of unquestioned reliability, the proof of which has been fully attested by recent instances in which well-known citizens of this county who have met disastrous losses by fire have received from the companies in which their insurance was placed ample and satisfactory compensation for all loss. An instance which we at present have in our mind is that of Mr. C. K. Essington, Jr., of Milesburg, whose loss by fire it was our duty to record a few days since. On Friday, the 21st, instant he received a check for $350 from the Queen Insurance Company, of which J. A. Rankin & Son of this place, are agents. There is nothing on earth better than an insurance policy in the Queen Insurance Company. Try it.

—Leopold Lichtenberg, a famous violinist, accompanies the Helen Potter Pleiades to this place. While he was attending the musical conservatory at Brussels, France, young Lichtenberg gained the first prize over sixty competitors.

A Scorcher from Howard.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:

The most interesting issue in our local politics this year seems to be the contest in the Republican party, on candidates for Commissioner. I am free to say that I am opposed to Mr. Rankin for several reasons:

1st, in his conduct of last fall's campaign he showed a recklessness and want of business ability which would entirely unfit him for a commissioner. We farmers do not want a man who will make a reckless use of the people's money, and a man who received as much as Mr. Rankin received, as we learn from a statement in an early issue of your paper, and then would allow his expenses to exceed funds on hand to the tune of one thousand dollars would to my mind be very apt to do connty business with the same reckless disregard of where the money was to come from to meet expenses. The commissioners are the autocrats of the county. They have control of the county money. They can build bridges, make roads, and, in fact, disburse all the money of the people. It is important, therefore, that they should all of them be careful business men, for such a board to lack in intelligence even would be lesser evil than to be destitute of prudence. A dumb but prudent board of men might refuse to build or repair a road that was actually needed, but the county would not lose money through their fault, but a reckless board of managers could pile up a debt for the county to pay of thousands of dollars—such a debt as we or our children would hardly see paid.

2nd, I have another grievance against Mr. Rankin which every Republican may not have. It is this: Last year he represented, or misrepresented, as I believe, this county in the State convention, notwithstanding the fact that the sentiment of the people of this county was unmistakably for Blaine, and the county committee expressed themselves in that way in a resolution introduced I think by Mr. Shortlidge, yet he as our representative voted all the time with the ring and for Grant instructions. Now I hold that every public man should be held accountable for his acts, and as I believe Mr. Rankin betrayed the Republicans of Centre at that time so I shall take this opportunity to rebuke him, or I want to say, that this alone would be sufficient justification for me as an individual Republican for voting against him, and I sincerely believe Mr. Editor, whatever your opinion may be, that if every Blaine man in the county resents this insult and betrayal in the same way he will not receive one hundred Republican votes in the county.

3rd, I am surprised at the cheek and impudence of the man. After using his position as chairman to secure the nomination to still retain the position while he is yet a candidate, thereby in a great measure controlling the fortune of the balance of the ticket. Such cheek is a little ahead of that time-honored creature, "a government mule." There are many other charges I might make, but I do not forget that he is a townsman of yours and I want to so temper my communication that you will not hesitate too long as to whether you will give me a hearing. I have been an old subscriber to your paper, and I know that I express sentiments that will accord with the views of hundreds of your readers, and therefore feel at liberty to ask a hearing. I do not want to force my opinions upon others, but I feel it my duty to throw out a danger signal at this time. I am always and all the time for the rule of the majority. I also hold that we should "prove all things and hold fast that which is good," so if I have said anything that does not please any Republican let him forget it.

In regard to that card in your paper whitewashing, or attempting to do so, Mr. Rankin's management of affairs last fall, I must say that I consider it rather thin, and it seems to me an acknowledgment of his utter inability to make a satisfactory statement. I was surprised that you passed it over in silence. It was reported at one time that the ring in Bellefonte had coerced you. I hope this is not so, for your manly course against a bad nomination has met with general approval among all Republicans with whom I have talked. Return to the card, the signers do not really say anything. They do not say that he properly conducted that memorable campaign, or that his expenditures were judicious, or that his management was business like. In fact, what do they certify to, can you tell us? "Do tell." HARATIO.

The Lost Balloonist.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21.—A special to the Republican from Eau Claire, Wis., says: Passengers on the train at Sparta, Wis., say Prof King's balloon struck a current of air and carried him northeast.

The Daily News of Chicago, which seems to be locating the lost balloon with remarkable closeness, has a dispatch from Detroit, Minn., that it was seen there going northwest at ten o'clock on Sunday night, and one from La Crosse, Wis., saying that on Tuesday it passed the farm of A. D. Tracey, and Prof. King spoke to the people on the ground. This makes it not impossible it has landed in the Eau Galle woods, where search was made for the Williams brothers. If so it is not surprising nothing is heard from it.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS.

Sentenced to Hang.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—Warrants for the execution of Emanuel Ettinger, Israel Erb and Jonathan Moyer, on Friday, December 16, 1881, were issued to-day from the Executive Department of Pennsylvania. The accused were tried separately in Snyder county for the murder of Gretchen Kintzler on the night of December 9, 1877, and convictied toward the close of last year. Two of them, Ettinger and Erb, had been tried for murdering John Kintzler, Gretchen's husband, who was killed with her, but the only testimony was that of Mary Hartley an accomplice, and a woman of bad reputation, and they were acquitted. The verdict was a great disappointment to the people of Snyder county, and a detective was employed to hunt down the guilty persons. Erb supposing that he would not be tried again made several statements implicating himself and others in the crime. Jonathan Moyer became enamored of a pretty girl in the neighborhood, and supposing that she would keep the secret, confessed that he participated in the murder. Ettinger also admitted his guilt to the detective and others, and all were convicted on very conclusive evidence. However, the case was carried to the Supreme Court which a few weeks ago affirmed the judgment of the lower Court. Urich Moyer, one of the alleged murderers, has not been arrested. The crime for which Ettinger, Erb and Moyer will hang was most brutal. John and Gretchen Kintzler occupied a loghouse in a sparsely settled district and were known to have considerable money. The condemned, according to the evidence, accompanied by Urich Moyer and Jonathan Moyer, killed them with clubs, took their money, about $2,000, which was secreted under the bed. and divided it among themselves, Then they burned the dwelling and fled.

A Haul of Women.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—One hundred and five women were marched to the Tombs yesterday morning between files of policemen. They were arrested on Sunday afternoon while sitting on doorsteps, sleeping in hallways, or passing along the side walks of Baxter, Mott, and Mulberry streets between Canal and Chatham streets. Policeman Lanigan charged them all with being vagrants, habitual drunkards and idlers. The ages of the women ranged from 18 to 80. The old women were healthier and less ragged than the younger ones. Mary Maher, whose husband is in prison, carried a boy infant. The child fainted twice in court. The mother and child had been locked up since 3 o'clock on the previous afternoon. Justice Bixby committed the women for terms of imprisonment varying from ten days to six months. As it was deemed dangerous to the health of the prison to have them locked up their, the Commissioners of Charities and Correction sent down all the wagons they could spare, and delayed the Island boat, and by 3 o'clock sixty of the women were on their way to the workhouse. The child was taken forcibly from Mrs. Maher, and will be intrusted to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

State Committee Meeting.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, Oct. 20.—The Republicans State Executive Committee met Tuesday afternoon in the rooms of the Union Republican Club, Eleventh and Chestnut Streets. Senator Thomas V. Cooper, the Chairman, presided over what was considered to be one of the best attended session of the State Committee ever held in an off-year. But few of the city delegates were present, while those from the interior of the State numbered nearly seventy. The reports handed from the Senatorial and Representative districts were of the most encouraging character and evinced that Mr. Wolfe's canvass of the State had the effect of making a great deal of noise and of awakening the voters of the Republican party to the dangers of the campaign. Resolutions were adopted providing for the appointment of an Executive Committee of ten, to be composed of business men, who will have charge of the financial portion of the State Committee's work. Another committee was also directed to be formed, and will contain the names of eight prominent colored men, who will be entitled to membership in the State Committee, and one of their number will be placed on the committee of ten. An adress to the people of the State was also adopted.

Other Washington Topics.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Mr. Scoville, Guiteau's counsel, finds that he has very litt'e time to thoroughly study up the case confided to him. There are only seventeen days left him now. 'I have to look up the statutes in regard to witnesses to-day,' he said to a Star reporter, 'and to write an argument to submit to the Court, which I will have printed. That will take one whole day. I have many letters to read. Of course, I cannot read them all. In some of them I find very valuable suggestions. I have received many pamphlets and publications regarding Guiteau's case, which I find valuable. All I want is time to read them and incorporate them in my mind. 'Here,' said Mr. Scoville, taking a letter from his pocket, 'is a letter from a lady in Boston, who seems very well informed. She gives me a list of valuable publications that I intend to order. The lawyers throughout the country are kept by the press about as well informed about the case as I am myself. Everything that transpires here reaches them. I get much valuable counsel from them. Here is a letter dated at Kirkwood, Missiouri, on Saturday, referring to the proceedings on Friday and making some good suggestions. Mr. Scoville expects his stenographic clerk to arrive from Chicago to-day, and will then be relieved of much work. He says that he never had any arrangement with Mr. W. Stephenson Johnson, Mr. Emory Storrs' law partner, in reference to taking part in the defense.

An Obedient Wife.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—A package of bonds was recently received at the Treasury for redemption, from which every number had been cut out. They came from Chicago. The Treasury officers were puzzled to know what particular species of villainy had been perpetrated or attempted, which could have given rise to such a mysterious procedure. The explanation came by letter to-day. The owner of the bonds was in New-York and wrote to his wife in Chicago, asking her to send him the numbers of his bonds and send the bonds themselves to the Treasury. The faithful creature complied literally by cutting out the numbers from both bonds and coupons.

Prof. King's Balloon.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Four days have now elapsed since Prof. King's balloon was last seen in the neighborhood of Sparta, Wis., and there is reason of apprehension that some disaster has befallen it and its occupants. The forest in the northern part of Wisconsin is one of the largest and densest in the world, and if the æronauts alighted safely within it they would find it extremely difficult to work their way out. Many instances are recorded where men familiar with its recesses have lost their way and wandered aimlessly through the tangled underbrush for days before reaching a clearing. If the professor and his companion are in this forest, the chances are that they will not get out alive. Parties are out searching for them. Prof. King had provisions for two days.

The Minnesota Senatorship.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Secretary Windom does not appear to be worried about the result of the Senatorial fight in Minnesota. He has been fully apprised of every step taken by the combination of Democrats and disaffected republicans to defeat him, and he is perfectly willing to abide with the result. He is in favor of paying the debt of the State and would rather be defeated on this issue by the Repudiationists than be elected by their votes. The latest advices from Minnesota indicate that the attempted coalition will be unsuccessful and that the Secretary of the Treasury will be returned to the Senate by a large majority.

Brutal Murder.

COLUMBUS, Ohio., Oct. 19.—The dead body of Charles P. McGrail was found in the northeast part of the city early this morning. There is evidence to show that he was going to the United States garrison, having enlisted in the army a few days before, was set upon by three or four men and brutally murdered. There was one welt on the forehead and there were marks of choking. The murderers stayed with him over an hour and then escaped. An old fend exists between a number of citizens of this part of the city and the soldiers. McGrail was born in 1856 at Yazoo, Miss. He was educated at Little Rock, Ark., and came here as a recruit from St. Louis last Saturday.

Affairs in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURB, Oct. 19.—An Imperial ukase has been promulgated granting Count Walujeff's request to be relieved from the presidency of the Committee of Ministers and other committees, on the ground of ill-health. Count Walujeff will remain a member of Council of the Empire, and will retain the rank of Secretary of State. M. de Reutern, member of the Privy Council and a Secretary of State, has been appointed president of the Committee of Ministers.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Telegraph hears from Warsaw that the discontent of the Russian land peasantry, concerning the land question, has spread to Poland.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Prince Orloff on his return from St. Petersburg to his post, as Russian Ambassador at Paris, will visit Prince Bismarck at Varzin. It is believed that his journey is connected with the question of the extradition of political offenders.

VIENNA, Oct. 19.—Preparations are making at Moscow for the coronation of Alexander III.

The Pope's Alternative.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A despatch from Rome to the Times says: "It is impossible to describe the enthusiastic cheers after the Pope gave his benediction on the occasion of receiving the Indian pilgrams at St. Peter's on Sunday. The Pope looked thin, worn and anxious. A gang of roughs pelted the pilgrims leaving the Church of St. Vital, shouting, 'Down with the Vatican!' The Pope, in his address to the pilgaims, said that the deplorable state of affairs placed before him the alternative of enduring continual captivity made harder daily, or of going into exile. He therefore asked Catholics to watch and pray for the liberty and independence of the Pope. He concluded by saying that he was no longer secure in his palace; that he was outraged in his person and dignity in a thousand ways. The gravity and earnestness of the Pope made a profound impression. He closed his address with his arms raised to heaven, as though imploring help."

The Policy of Spain.

MADRID, Oct. 20.—In the Senate to-day the address replying to the speech from the throne was adopted by a vote of 135 to 61. The Marquis de Armijo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, explained the negotiations with the Vatican in reference to the late disturbances in Rome, and also the negotiatians with France relative to the Saida massacre. Premier Segasta declared that the Ministry sought to reconcile liberty with Monarchical institutions, with which Spain was well satisfied. He congratulated former Republicans upon the new strengthening Monarchy.

Losses in the Recent Storm.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—It is estimated that 43,570 tons of produce, including 20,454 tons of coal, were lost at sea in the recent gale. A majority of the wrecked vessels were colliers, but the general produce as well as building materials, petroleum, herrings, tar and oil cake lost number about 13,257 tons. The other losses consist of salt, iron and timber.

Pilgrims Assailed by a Mob.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A dispatch received in Paris from Rome says that the Italian pilgrims were assailed yesterday evening with cries of 'death to the Pope' and 'down with the Vatican.' A tumult ensued and the police arrested several persons.

French Exports and Imports.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The value of imports decreased 138,000,000 francs for the first nine months of 1881, as compared with the same period in 1880, and the value of exports increased 31,000,000 francs in the same time. The decrease and increase respectively were principally under the head of food.

Chili and the Argentine Republic.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 20.—The Chilian question is becoming somewhat critical, owing to the demand by the Argentine Government that the boundary treaty be ratified by both Congresses without further delay. Chili has summoned a special session of Congress, and an amicable settlement is expected.

The French in North Africa.

TUNIS, Oct. 19.—General Logerot marched with 4,000 troops towards Zaghouan yesterday. Fighting with Arabs is proceeding near Ghardimaou.

PROOF EVERYWHERE.—If any invalid or sick person has the least doubt of the power and efficacy of Hop Bitters to cure them, they can find cases exactly like their own, in their own neighborhood, with proof positive that they can be easily and permanently cured, at a trifling cost—or ask your druggist or physician.

GREENWICH, Feb. 11. 1880.

Hop Bitters Co.—Sirs—I was given up by the doctors to die of scrofula consumption. Two bottles of your Bitters cured me. LEROY BREWER.

Blue Laws Revived.

NORWICH, Oct. 19.—Ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes arrived here late on Saturday evening, and was the guest 'over Sunday' of the Rev. Dr. Leonard Woolsey Bacon, pastor of the Park Church, the wealthiest parish in the city. The ex-President came unnoticed and unattended, and doubtless little thought that his visit to this sleepy town would cause such a commotion as has been awakened in this section of Connecticut. Dr. Bacon two years ago last summer denounced in scathing invective the managers of the pleasure steamer Ella for taking out one or two excursion parties on Sunday. At a tent mass meeting he presented his views so strongly that the Sunday patronage of the boat was ruined and the enterprise has never since been revived. Dr. Bacon went so far as to cause the arrest of James Walker, the manager of the line digging up for this purpose the old Connecticut 'Blue Law' upon which he based his sweeping statements. The statute is as follows:

SECTION 62.—Every proprietor or driver of any vehicle not employed in carrying the United States mail who shall allow any person to travel therein on Sunday, between sunrise and sunset, except from necessity or mercy, shall be fined $20, to be paid to the town in which the offence is committed.

Dr. Bacon's conduct created opposition to him among the working people, and his action yesterday, in violating the same law which he then so strenuously upheld has been severely commented on by the press and by many of our citizens. On Sunday afternoon Dr. Bacon took ex-President Hayes and Congressman John Wait in a fine team and his distinguished guests about the city, visiting the principal places of interest. By the provisions of the statute above quoted the Doctor has rendered himself liable to arrest, inasmuch as he acted as a driver for the party, and it is announced this evening that manager Walker, of the persecuted steamboat line is considering the propriety of his apprehension. The affair has created a hearty laugh among the legal fraternity at the Doctor's expense. What excuse he may offer is unknown. Congressman Wait said tonight in response to the Herald correspondent's inquiry that he failed to see wherein Mr. Hayes and himself were amenable to the law, as they were neither owners nor drivers of the team.

Duelling in Virginia.

RICHMND, Va., Oct. 17.—In yesterday's first edition of the State there appeared an editorial written by Richard F. Beirne, Jr., editor, in reference to the alleged confession of W. Leigh Wilson about the Blair letters, in the course of which Mr. Beirne denounced Captain H. H. Riddleberger as being unworthy of belief. In a later edition of the same paper there appeared the card of the Hon. George D. Wise autographed last night also denouncing Captain Riddleberger as a liar and a scoundrel. Since that time the public has been much excited in anticipation of hostile meetings between the parties named. At about 6 o'clock this evening Captain Riddleberger and two friends were seen to alight from a carriage at the office of the Whig, and soon thereafter it became generally reported that he had a meeting with both. From the best information now obtainable the following particulars are given: Immediately upon the appearance of the paper containing Mr. Beirne's editorial, Captain Riddleberger sent that gentleman a challenge to mortal combat, and but a short time after the second edition, with Captain Wise's card, had made its appearance the latter gentleman received a similar invitation from Captain Riddleberger. All the parties left the city last evening to avoid arrest and arrangement were speedily made for the two affairs. Messrs. Riddleberger and Beirne, accompanied by their respective friends, met at 8 o'clock this morning near Ashland, in Hanover County. But when everything was in readiness and the seconds proceeded to load the weapons, it was found that by an oversight of Mr. Beirne's friends no caps had been provided for the pistols. The result was that hostilities were for the time suspended, as it was impossible to obtain the necessary ammunition within any short time. Captain Riddleberger would wait no longer and left the ground in order to fulfill the engagement he had with Captain Wise.

The place chosen for the second meeting was near the Henry Company turnpike, about ten miles from Richmond. Both parties were promptly on the ground at 4 o'clock this evening. In this case nothing had been left undone or unprovided, and in a few moments the principals were placed opposite each other at a distance of ten paces, armed with regular smoothe-bore dueling pistols and prepared for deadly work. Upon the first fire Captain Wise's weapon but he remained unhurt by his opponent's fire. This was followed by two other rounds without either of the combatants being hurt. It is reported that Captain Wise's hat was perforated by a ball, while Captain Riddleberger's coat was pierced by a ball. At the end of the third round the friends of both stepped forward and declared the vindication had been ample, and that hostilities should cease. A mutual explanation followed.

Hammond and Sims on Guiteau.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Dr. W. A Hammond and Dr. J. Marion Sims both expressed great surprise yesterday at the announcement of Guiteau's counsel that they were to be called as witnesses on behalf of the assassin, that the death of President Garfield was largely due to malpractice. Dr. Hammond says that he has not been summoned as a witness, and that he would not testify in any way beyond saying that had it not been for Guiteau's shot the late President would be living to-day. Dr. Hammond thinks the attending physicians made a mistake in their treatment, but nevertheless the ball killed the patient, and the main cause of his death was the wound inflicted by Guiteau. Dr Hammond says that Mr. Scoville, Guiteau's counsel, has consulted him regarding the selection of expert witnesses, but that he never mentioned his own name in connection with the matter. The doctor says that he wants to see Guiteau hanged, because he deserves hanging if any man ever did, and that he would not save his life if he could do it by crossing the street.

Dr. Sims, when asked if he was going to be a witness in the case, said that he would be delighted to give his testimony against Guiteau, because he alone killed the late President. Dr. Sims says that he does note care to say anything about the treatment of the patient, because as soon as the assassin's bullet struck General Garfield's spine his case was hopeless, and no physician in the country could have saved him. Dr. Sims further thinks Mr. Scoville has made a mistake in advancing malpractice as a ground for defence and if Drs. Gunn and Andrews, of Chicago, tender their services as witnesses, he thinks they will do the prisoner more harm than good.

Drs. McDonald and Fitch, of the Insane Asylum on Ward's Island, whom Mr. Scoville said in court at Washington he intended to call as witnesses to prove Guiteau's insanity, say that they have received no other hint of such a purpose and have no desire to testify.

Trinket Broken Up.

New York, October 15.—Probably the largest crowd ever at Fleetwood-park track assembled at the grounds of the Gentleman's Driving Association to-day to witness the great trotting event between St. Julien and Trinket, mile heats, best three in five, for a purse of $5,000. The track was in admirable condition and the weather favorable. General Grant occupied a seat on the judges' stand, and was greeted with loud applause when he passed the Club house after the second heat. After a second start the horses were sent off in the first heat, Trinket leading, but before the quarter pole was reached St. Julien passed the mare and kept the lead to the finish, Trinket coming in on a run. Time, 2.14½. In the second heat St. Julien led two lengths at the quarter pole, a length and a half, a length at the three-quarter, and a length at the finish, when Trinket again broke into a run. Time, 2.17¼. The horses were evenly started in the third heat, St. Julien taking the lead. When near the three-quarter pole Trinket broke, but was brought down at once. At the turn the horses were almost even, and at the finish of the heat was very exciting. St. Julien won the heat and race by three-quarters of a length. Time 2.16.

A Horrible Charge.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 17.—James Murry has been arrested here for wronging his own brother's daughter, a mere child of sixteen years, who has recently become a mother. The girl swears that her uncle ruined her and is the father of her child. The affair has caused intense indignation at the accused.

A Shocking Scene.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Dora Beyland, sixty-five years old, was arrested this afternoon charged with the murder of her grandson, Harry Gould, son of John Gould, of Newport. The child is two and one half years old and had been left in her charge while the parents were in the city. During the afternoon the child did something that displeased Mrs. Beyland, and she struck it in the head with a stick and then cut its head from its body with a butcher knife. Mrs. Beyland is a widow, and was a few years ago in an insane asylum, but was discharged cured. The excitement in Newport is intense. It is evident the woman's insanity has returned and she has been placed in jail. It was several hours after the murder before the shocking news reached the parents of the child and the scene on their return was heartrending. The child was the youngest of the family.

The Pay of Guiteau's Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Mr. Scoville, counsel for Guiteau, in the District Criminal Court to-day suggested that both he and the District Attorney were desirous of having a decision upon the question of allowance for expenses of prisoner's witnesses. He said he did not see how he could get along with depositions alone, and he would like to know as soon as possible whether or not the court would order an allowance to cover the expense of bringing witnesses here in person. In reply the court said there was a fund under the control of the Attorney General from which allowances of this kind had been made, and he would address a communication to the Attorney General upon the subject. He could do no more than this at present.

Shot His Wife for a Burglar.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17.—On the night of October 14th Andrew Von Bibber, of this city, shot his wife, mistaking her for a burglar. The matter was kept secret, and Mrs. Von Bibber was put under treatment at the Cincinnati hospital. Last night the secret leaked out, and was published to-day. Von Bibber was arrested, but instantly released on the belief that the shooting was accidental. The attempt at secrecy gave the affair an air of mystery, and will cause a full investigation. Mrs. Von Bibber is at the point of death to-night.

A Murderer's Mistake.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 18.—At Aiken, S. C., last night, Virgil Briggs (colored) shot Jabez Franklyn in the abdomen. Franklyn will die. Briggs mistook Franklyn for his own brother, whom he intended to shoot on account of a family quarrel. Briggs is in jail.

Killed by the Cars.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Oct. 18.—William Redevat, of Beekman, was run over by a train on the New York and New England Railroad this morning and was instantly killed. He was unmarried and twenty-two years of age.

Local Small Talk.

—Christmas this year comes on Sunday.

—Election day draws nigh, and candidates are growing anxious.

—October carries with it this year five Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays. How strange!

—You cannot lawfully kill rabbits until after the first of November. If you kill them before that time you subject yourself to fine and imprisonment.

—Liverymen are preparing for a big run this winter. One of them has purchased thirteen new sleighs for use when the snowy-crystals appear.

—James P. McNarney, a former Lock Havener, was lately admitted to practice law in the courts of Iowa, and is said to have stood an excellent examination.

—Lock Haven papers are weekly filled with articles on tobacco culture, but which are always gathered from some other source. Why don't you get up something original?

—The public schools are largely attended by children and young ladies and gentlemen, and the results which have attended the efforts of the preceptors so far are very encouraging.

—S. D. Ray, Esq., lawyer and civil engineer, was engaged on Tuesday afternoon in surveying the lands near the glass works on which the buildings for the new nail works are to be erected.

—Mr. E. W. Clark has leased the blacksmith shop in the rear of Gordon & Landis' machine shop, where he will hold forth in the future. Mr. Clark is an excellent workman and deserves success.

—"Bob" Burdette is out in a new lecture which he calls "Home, Sweet Home," and is advertised to deliver it in Williamsport next Monday night. Why don't we make arrangements to have "Bob" in Bellefonte?

—The students composing the senior class of Pennsylvania College, who visited Bellefonte last week from where they went to Watkin's Glenn, again returned to Gettysburg, and are said to be highly pleased with their trip.

—No less than five cars loaded with iron ore were shipped away from town on Thursday by one party, and containing twenty tons to the car it will be that this party alone disposed of one hundred tons. How do you like the appearance of this, business men?

—We were on Thursday shown a peculiar machine, now on exhibition at Gordon & Landis', calculated to cut up cornstalks and even cobs in such a manner that they can be utilized for feeding cattle. It is a very ingenious arrangement, and will probably become popular with farmers.

—Altoona physicians have become engaged in a general discussion as to whether scarlet fever in that city has become an epidemic or not, and to settle the dispute one of them cites a single instance in which there are ten cases in a single family. We think this comes pretty near being an epidemic—in that family at least.

—Miss Ada Gill, a young lady 18 years of age, daughter of Mr. Amos Gill, of Gilltown, near Pleasant Gap, died on Sunday, the 16th, and was buried Tuesday. The cause of her death was typhoid fever, from which she had been suffering some time before her death. The family has the sympathy of the community.

—Mr. James Milliken and his accomplished niece, Miss Clara Millikin, have returned from their European trip and are now quietly resting at their beautiful home in this place. Their journey abroad was very enjoyable, but their return home is rendered somewhat sad by their recent bereavement in the death of Mr. Milliken's mother, Mrs. Nancy Reed.

—One of our exchanges remarks to those gathering autumn leaves, ferns and other forest treasures, care should be taken not to touch the three-leaved ivy, the leaves of which are in beautiful tints and very attractive, because it is poisonous. It will be found clinging to fences and trees, and intertwined with clematis, so much sought for in the bushes and hedges.

—The fair and festival of the Catholic church, which had been in progress on Bishop street for a week or ten days, closed on Tuesday, the 18th instant. Something over sixteen hundred dollars were netted for the church thereby, and the managers have every reason to be proud of their work. The gold-headed cane, over which such a severe contest was made, was won by Patrick Loughery. Of the other prizes, Miss Kate Crotty received the handsome gold necklace, Eugene Bradley a gold watch, and a gentleman named Garber, residing at Valentines' ore bank, in Spring township, the beautiful chamber suit.

Death of an Aged Citizen.

We are again called upon to record the death of one of Bellefonte's oldest—if not the very oldest—citizens, Mr. Isaac Miller, which occurred at his residence on Howard street at a few minutes after 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning. "Uncle Isaac," as he was generally know by our citizens, had been ailing for some time, and lately had grown so bad that his death had been daily expected for several days. The cause of death is a general breaking down of health, or more properly general debility.

Mr. Miller was born in Chester county in the year 1802, and was of Quaker parentage, and in which faith he was raised and lived all his life. He removed to Centre county when about fifteen years of age, where he served in the employment of one of the Valentines, and worked about the forge and rolling mill for a number of years. At one time, not many years after the establishment of the works, he served in the capacity of "boss roller" in the rolling mill, being at that time very young in years and experience, but at which he proved a success. Later in life he was engaged in the mercantile business in Bellefonte, his store building standing on the corner of High and Spring streets, but which was afterwards moved to the place where Mrs. Wilson now resides, on High street. The next we learn of Mr. Miller he had removed to Chester county, where he had purchased a farm and was engaged at tilling the soil. But this did not seem to suit him, for in a few years he again returned to Bellefonte, where he purchased the property now owned by Mr. Samuel Vantries and settled down. Several years after this the firm of Miller, Thomas & Co. was formed for the purpose of conducting the Mill Hall furnace, and Mr. Miller removed thither and successfully superintended the enterprise until the dissolution of the firm. He was afterwards connected with the Howard iron works in several capacities, but for a number of years has not been actively engaged in any business. Although not a rich man, he was in very comfortable circumstances, and lived pleasantly and peacefully at his quiet home with his aged wife, where he enjoyed the fullest confidence of his neighbors and friends and commanded the respect of all who knew him.

Uncle Isaac had a large connection of relatives in this vicinity, and among whom numbers some of our very best families. He was an uncle to Mrs. Jacob V. Thomas and Robert Miller, of this place, and also of Mr. A. V. Miller of Pleasant Gap. As will be seen he was in his 80th year at the time of his death, which embraces four score years of honorable and Christian usefulness, and the example of his every day walk and conversation in life leaves no doubt that he has departed for that heavenly eternity of which the Scriptures speak.

Funeral services were held at the residence of the deceased on Howard street, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock.

Registering Physicians.

About all the physicians in the county have now complied with the recent act of Assembly requiring their registration with the County Prothonotary, and those who have not are requested to do so at once. Since our last report the following have registered with Prothonotary Harper:

John H. Mullen—Born in Bellefonte. Attended lectures at the University of Penna., in 1852-3-4-5-6. Practiced in Clearfield and Centre counties since 1856. Place of residence and practice, Bellefonte, Pa.

Jarvis Hulbert—Born in Washington county, New York. Has practiced medicine continuously since 1861 in Clinton and Centre counties. Place of residence and practice, Liberty township, Centre county.

John F. Alexander—Born in Centre county. Medical degrees, one—University of Wooster, Ohio, Feb. 26, 1874. Place of residence and practice, Centre Hall, Pa.

Frank H. Van Valzah—Born in Centre county. Medical degrees, one—Jefferson Medical College, March 12, 1870. Place of residence and practice, Spring Mills, Centre county.

Thomas Rothrock—Born in Centre county. Medical degrees, one—University of Penn'a. Diploma lost. Place of residence and practice, Blanchard, Centre county.

S. F. Lytle—Born in Centre county. Medical degrees, one—Bellevene Medical College, New York, March, 1875. Place of residence and practice, Philipsburg.

Philip T. Musser—Born in Centre county—Medical degrees, one—Jefferson Medical College, March, 1853. Place of residence and practice, Aaronsburg, Pa.

—Mr. Charles E. Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press, addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting at Lewisburg on Monday evening, taking as his subject, "Why General Baily should be supported from an independent standpoint." After the address a large torchlight procession paraded the streets, and between the music of the bands and the hurrahing there was a lively time. And all this at Lewisburg, the home of Wolfe!

Sale of the Car Works.

Thursday next is the time fixed for the sale of the car works, and at which time their fate will be sealed. If they are purchased by a party simply for the purpose of speculation, it would be far better for Bellefonte if they weren't here. If they are purchased by some one with a determination and the means to carry them on, it will prove a good thing for the town, and a blessing for which everyone will be thankful. After standing idle so long it seems just a little too bad to think that there is a possibility of their again returning to that state. But right here we might ask if there is not sufficient capital and push in the business men of Bellefonte to take hold of these works and run them themselves? There certainly is he money, and all that is necessary to push the works is a little get-up and vim in our capitalists. These works might be made a blessing to the town by a little wise action on the part of those who have the means But will it be done? Besides there are men in our town who have the ability to conduct the works but who sadly have not the means to purchase them, and now by a simple consolidation of these two elements, capital and labor, we can see no reason why our people could not take hold of these works themselves and carry them on, and not go begging for outside assistance. Will it be done? We pause for an answer.

Crooked Teutons.

Chief Montgomery visited Milesburg the other day and arrested a couple of German individuals who were attempting to slip off without paying their board bills. They had been employed at the car works, and were boarding with a widow lady named Miller, residing on Reservoir hill, and when they concluded to leave town folded their tents and like the Arabs attempted to "silently steal away" without giving their landlady any notice of their intentions. But she fortunately "smelled a mice," and made complaint before 'Squire Smith, who issued a warrant and placed it in officer Montgomery's hands for their arrest. It was discovered that they had walked to Milesburg. The Chief boarded the express west in the evening, and when he reached that village observed the Teutonic individuals complacently strolling along the platform awaiting the train's arrival on which they would "hie to fields abroad." He lost no time in reminding them of their absent-mindedness in regard to their unpaid board bills, and insisted that they should return to town with him. This they did under protest, but when they reached town matters were satisfactorily adjusted, and they were permitted to depart. They had purchased tickets for Pittsburg, and had not this timely action been taken would have escaped and Mrs. Miller lost her money.

—The Reformed church in the United States has 1 general synod, 6 district synods, 48 classes, 762 ministers, 1,303 congregations, 161,000 communicant members. The general synod meets once every three years. It met last May at Tiffin, Ohio, and its next regular meeting will be in Baltimore, Md., in May, 1884. The district synods meet annually. Two of these—the Synod of the Reformed Church in the United States, and the Synod of the Potomac—will convene in annual session on Wednesday evening, the 19th instant, the former at Danville, Montour county, Pa., and the latter at Waynesboro, Franklin county, Pa.

—A telephonic dispatch from Milesburg on Wednseday stated that while workmen were engaged at removing a large hammer weighing nearly half a ton, which had gone through the fire there on Friday night, it in some manner slipped and fell on a foot of Mr. C. R. Essington, Jr., who was assisting in the work, and badly mashing it. Medical aid was soon called and the injured member attended to. Mr. Essington is able to be about on crutches, though he can do no work.

—The Papal jubilee, recently proclaimed by Pope Leo, is now being held in all the Catholic churches in this country. The bishop appoints the time for each congregation in his diocese to be devoted to the jubilee exercises, which consists in attendance at sermons, instructions, confessions of sins, strict abstinence from food at appointed times, and the receiving of the Holy Communion. The reward is a special plenary indulgence.

—Last Saturday Superintendent Baldwin was made the recipient of two very handsome presents by his numerous friends in Williamsport and former employees along the line of the P. & E. railroad. One consisted of and elegant silver service and the other a gold watch. Speeches were made fitting for the occasion, and a general good time had by everyone who was present.

—You may now lawfully shoot partridges, so bang away.

Stormstown Items.

The recent rain storm gave Mr. Daniel Rhoads another chance of starting his ore washer at Loveville.

Mr. James Pierrepoint, late of Pennsylvania Furnace, is making Stormstown his headquarters. He is now prospecting for ore at Toe Hill, and we believe with prospects of success.

Mr. Samuel Mattern has a patent cider press on which he has made many gallons of excellent cider this season.

Rev. Mr. Bouse, now of the Carlisle but once an active member of this curcuit, is with us once more looking for wild turkeys and deer. He is stopping with John A. Hunter.

Mr. Daniel Cowher, agent for the Singer sewing machine, while driving home Saturday evening accidentally drove over a large hog, breaking a leg and dislocating its back bone.

MACK.

—Wednesday was the one-hundredth anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis, and one hundred years since American independence was substantially secured. And yet the day passed by almost wholly unobserved by the American people, except, of course, those who visited Yorktown for that purpose.

—The firm of Bauland & Newman, proprietors of the Bee Hive dry goods store, have disposed of their interests to a Mr. Goldsmith, of New York, who will hereafter conduct the business himself. Bauland & Newman expect to move to Chicago, where they will establish themselves as wholesale clothiers.

—The drench which we stated was being dug for the purpose of carrying water into the Arcade building turns out to be for the purpose of a foundation for a carpet room to be added to Guggenheimer's store. We were misinformed.

—A young son of Mr. Wm. Jones, named after the late Captain K. R. Breese, has received from Philadelphia a present of a handsome silver knife, fork and spoon, beautifully engraved, which were ordered by Captain Breese before his death.

—House-cleaning time is again at hand, and we haven't seen a single verse of poetry regarding the event yet. What in the world is the matter, anyway, with our poets?

—There is a drama being played on the American stage entitled "One Hundred Wives." The hero in this play ought to have his hands full.

—If Vennor is responsible for this weather he ought to be assassinated. There is all kinds of it, but not enough of either to satisfy any one.

The "Irish World's" Advices.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The editor of the Irish World has received a dispatch from the office of the Land League headquarters, Dublin, dated October 15, 9:25, which states: "William O'Brien, editor of the United Ireland, was arrested as he was entering his office in Lower Abbey street, because of an article written by him denouncing Gladstone as seized with the devil and bent on driving the people into rebellion James O'Kelly, who had come over from London and spent the whole night in conference with Dillon, Justin McCarthy, Rylett and others, and was resting at the Imperial, has also been arrested. Rev. Harold Rylett, T. M. Healy, M. P., Arthur O'Connor, M. P., Administrator Cortwell, O. Thurles of Tipperary, Jordan Walsh of Mayo are marked for attention next."

The West is getting to be notorious as the stamping ground of outlaw 'brothers.' The bloody deeds of the James brothers, the Younger brothers, and other family couples of the kind figure largely in the criminal records of the last few years. Now come the Maxwell brothers, who sprang into fame almost as quickly as Guiteau. The brothers were indicted for horse stealing. While the Sheriff at Durand Wis., was reading the indictment to them the Maxwells killed the Sheriff and his deputy, immediately escaping to Illinois. Last week the Sheriff of Calhoun county, Ill., with seven assistants, came upon the murderers in a wheat field. Alonzo, one of the brothers, was sitting on a log with a gun in his lap; Edward, the other, was lying behind the log. The Sheriff ordered them to surrender. The reply was in the from of a bullet, which killed the Sheriff instantly. One of the deputies was shot at the same moment. Drawing revolvers, the Maxwells advanced, seized the horses that had been ridden by the dead men and rode off at a gallop. They began the descent of the Mississippi in a canoe. They are thought to be making their way southward, paddling cautiously at night and hiding during the day. Extra lights were placed upon the St. Louis bridge the other evening that they might not pass unseen.

There are at present 25,000 barrels of crude petroleum stored in iron tanks in the oil regions of the State.

A Circle of Comets.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 18.—The Courier Journal of Sunday publishes a letter from Professor Klein, saying: 'I have for several weeks past noticed a singular phenomenon in the heavens in the shape of a double comet, or comets attended with nine smaller ones, all in a circle, closely resembling one of Saturn's rings. They all appear to be connected together, as they move in the same orbit, and the larger one of the double comets will at regular intervals eclipse the smaller one, and the little ones are on such occasions lost sight of in the mist thus created. I have no doubt that this is the comet of 1845-46, supposed to have been destroyed, that now appears to us in this singular shape, attended with numerous satellites, which by some of the wonderful processes of nature were undoubtedly thrown from its nucleus, but not with sufficient force to get beyond its attraction, and are therefore resting on the original ring-like nucleus, which has undoubtedly been rent asunder by a great cometary eruption and gathered again in its present shape. This, too, I believe to be the comet of 1811, having a period of thirty-five years. Aside from this wonderful comet (or rather eleven comets) there are five others now visible.'

Spain's Tariff Question.

MADRID, Oct. 17.—El Correo says Senor Camacho, Minister of Finance, will present to the Cortes on Wednesday a bill for the reform of the customs dues in a free-trade sense. He will also propose an arrangement dealing with the Spanish debt, and a reduction of the tariff on stamped paper, letters and telegrams, and of the territorial tax. Senor Camacho in the budget for 1881 will estimate the expenditure at 783,000,000 pesetas, and the receipts at an equal amount.

Local Department.

—The pool rooms about town are doing a good business.

—October, one of the loveliest of the autumn months, is almost gone.

—The time for festivals, oyster suppers, and "sich like" is now approaching.

—Even a temperance man is compelled to take a "fly" in his drinks now.

—Several cars loaded with machinery for the new nail works arrived in town Saturday.

—It is now fashionable for the father of the bride to kiss the groom and then take him into partnership.

—Don't fail to secure a seat in time for the entertainment to be given by the Hellen Potter pleiades Friday night.

—Market was not largely attended Saturday morning, and consequently not an overly large display of produce was offered,

—Saturday night night was very lively on the streets, and the usual number of weekly drunks made their appearance.

—It would be well for house-keepers to carefully examine chimneys and flues before starting up winter fires. It might save a good deal of trouble and the expense of a conflagration.

—In last Friday's Watchman we find this beautiful little one-liner at the bottom of the fifth column of the first page: "Vote the whole Dem. ticket." This is a typograpical error; it should have been spelled "damn."

—Henry Romberger, recently convicted in the court of Dauphin county for the murder of old man named Troutman, has acknowledged his guilt, and says he is willing to pay the penalty for his crime.

—The Bellefonters who attended the racing at Philipsburg last week have about all returned, and report a first-rate time. The racing was spirited and fast, although not as largely attended as the management expected it would be.

—The Philadelphia Enquirer has this to say of the entertainment recently given by Helen Potter in that city. "The large audience that filled even the aisles and standing room of the Academy of Music were delighted by the Pleiades."

—The dear girls have gotten into the hang of hoop skirts, and can now manipulate the curious things as well as their mothers used to do. The revival of the old custom of wearing hoops has caused a revival in the fancy stocking trade. Muddy days, you know.

—We find this item going the rounds of the press, but which is news to us: "An attempt was made by tramps to attack a country school house in Centre county last week, which the boys so stoutly resisted that the peripatetic vagabonds retreated in disorder."

—The Burlington Hawkeye is credited with this: The Chinese Government is going to build some railroads, and soon will be heard in the land the voice of the Celestial brakeman, "Hoppee! Yang-tze-kian junction! Tlain stoppee ten minutes eatee and dlinkee!"

—Rev. John Palmer, who is attending the annual conference of his church at Wilkerbarre this week, states that he carries with him the best report ever handed in from this circuit, both financially and spiritually. He thinks the prospects for his return are very promising.

—Thursday last was the day set apart for the shooting contest between representatives of Company H, of Johnstown, and Company B, of Bellefonte, but which didn't take place. We suppose it was owing to the absence of a portion of our company to Yorktown. Arrangements will probably be made to bring these companies together to test the abilities of each at an early day, although we are now unable to state anything definite.

—The Millheim Journal relates the following horrible accident to a young son of Benjamin Stover of Haines township. On Thursday of last week a little son of Benj. Stover, residing at Pine Creek, Haines township, while hunting fish worms in company with his brother, met with a serious accident. Forest was just lifting the pick to dig into the ground when Clarence bent forward to take up a worm. The sharp point of the pick went straight into his right eye, completely emptying the optic cavity. Drs. Deshler are the atttending physicians and report the child doing as well as can be expected.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

The Nittany Valley Railroad, Where it Leads to and all About it.

We are now prepared to give our readers more particulars concerning the new railroad to be built near Bellefonte, a notice of which we printed several days ago. A charter was granted on Wednesday last at Harrisburg for the construction of a road to be known as the "Nittany Valley Railroad," narrow-gauge, to extend a distance of three miles and a fraction to what is known as the Annesly ore bank, and with the privilege of constructing as many different branches as are regarded necessary or desirable. Twenty-five thousand dollars at present constitute the capital stock of the company, but this sum is expected to be increased two or three times this amount before many days. Of the Nittany Valley Railroad Company, Robert Valentine, Esq., of this place, is President, and the balance of the officers is composed of the following gentlemen: Jacob D. Valentine, Geo. Valentine, A. S. Valentine, W. J. Nicholls, Adam Hoy and John P. Harris, directors; W. J. Nichols, chief engineer and superintendent, and Harry C. Valentine, secretary and treasurer.

The survey for the new road has already been completed under the management of Superintendent Nicholls, and as nearly as we can learn, (and we get our information from one of the directors of the company), will connect with the Bald Eagle valley road at the meadow just below town, opposite Cowdrick's brick yard. From this point the road starts, and a substantial bridge will span Spring creek and carry the road over to Armor's meadow, whence it will take up through the ravine and along a small stream of water running down through the hollow. The line will cross the Jacksonville road on the farm of ex-Sheriff Kline, about a mile below town, from whence it again takes through a hollow and strip of wood, coming out near the farm house of Mr. James Curtin, and making straight for the Annesly ore bank, a short distance below this point, and which for the present will be the terminal of the road.

Already enough money is subscribed to carry the road this far, and it is the intention of the officers to continue the line to Hublersburg, which is claimed to be the heart of the richest hematite ore deposit in the State, just as soon as sufficient stock is subscribed to warrant them in the undertaking. Branches will be built connecting Curtin's, Hoy's and the Bellefonte Ore Company with the main line, and also the several banks of the Messrs. Valentine. Work on the grading of the road will begin at once, or just as soon as the proper arrangements can be made and the men employed, and which will be pushed forward to rapid completion. The rolling stock will be purchased by the company, and the entire road will be conducted independently of any other line, and solely for the advantage of our iron men, and farmers and others along the line who may find it convenient to use it.

In an interview with one of the members of the firm of Valentines & Co. yesterday, a reporter of the NEWS was informed that for years they had sometimes been greatly puzzled to know just how to get their supply of ore from their several banks. Hauling it with teams was both expensive and uncertain, but it is hoped that this new arrangement will overcome this perplexing difficulty. He further stated that it should be understood from the outset that the new road was not to be built solely in the interest of any firm or corporation, but that it was intended to be a public improvement and for the public good, and that it was hoped the people of Bellefonte, more particularly, would reap a great benefit in many different ways.

We believe the people of our town have reason to rejoice at the bright prospects now before them. The new field this railroad is opening up must certainly prove of the greatest value to our business men in the future. For years the present system of teaming has not only been a great drawback to our own iron makers but has been the means of keeping others away who would have located here under almost any other circumstances. Already there is talk of several coke furnaces being erected in our midst, and we predict that it will not be many months till Bellefonte will be literally alive with furnaces and rolling mills. The hematite ore deposit of Nittany valley is said to be of greater abundance and of a very superior quality to that of the Pennsylvania Furnace region, and the construction of this road will afford a means of developing the mines and getting the mineral to market at an expense that will make it profitable, something that cannot now be done. The greater part of the lands in this region on which there are ore deposits are owned by Valentines & Co., McCoy & Linn, Lauth, Thomas & Co., the Messrs. Curtin, and the heirs of the late Thomas Huston, and all are deeply interested in the construction of the new railroad. Besides hauling iron ore it is expected that a passenger car will be attached to the train and a regular passenger business carried on. The road will connect with all the towns in the valley, and it is supposed that they will contribute quite a good deal to the passenger traffic of the road. It is also hoped that this will induce many of the farmers of that region, who now do their marketing at Lock Haven and other places in that direction, to come to Bellefonte with their produce, which will add materially to our income. Subscription for stock will be received in a day or two, the latter selling at $50 per share, and we advise those who have money to invest to take advantage of this opportunity, for after the road is completed stock will be valuable. If they are successful in disp ing of all the stock, which we think there is no doubt they will be, by this time next year Bellefonte and Hublersburg will be connected by railroad, and the whole Nittany valley set in motion developing her rich resources, something they ought to have been doing years ago.

Officers Elected.

There was a small attendance at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association last Friday evening, but we understand that the purpose of the meeting as previously announced by President Keller, was successfully carried out. A full list of officers was elected to serve during the ensuing Association year, and a committee appointed to draft a new constitution. This last measure was rendered imperative as the constitution by which the affairs of the Association have heretofore been governed contains no provision for the office of a General Secretary. After the new constitution shall have been reported and adopted the General Secretary will be called and the affairs of the Association, under the new regime, will receive a fresh impetus. This is what is sadly needed as the Association has, during the past summer, been in an almost comatose state. We hope the meetings will once again be well attended and the moral status of the youthful and middle-aged population of our delightful little borough correspondingly elevated. This is what a General Secretary should accomplish, and if he fails in this he is also a failure.

—They were seated on the front porch before the residence of a certain Allegheny street merchant, Saturday night, and the party numbered more than half a dozen ladies, among whom were a couple who have been clothed in matrimonial robes for several years. They had evidently been talking about domestic economy (the night was dark and we passed by unnoticed by them) when one of the married ladies remarked that the "innumerable privileges" of a hotel make boarding much more preferable for married women. The low, disdainful jeers of the balance of the party rather startled the reporter, who is now in a quandary to understand the profundity or significance of the remark.

—Comfort of the coziest kind is now ensured to guests at the Bush House, especially those who spend much time in the office. One of those large egg-shaped stoves, which are more useful than ornamental, has been placed in position in the centre of that large apartment and if it does not radiate sufficient heat for all necessary purposes during the coming cold weather we are mistaken in appearances.

—The passenger trains which daily visit Bellefonte come in at such a rapid rate of speed that one would think they weren't going to stop here at all. This is dangerous business, and the railroad men ought to exercise a little more care in this matter.

—The usual morning and evening services of the Presbyterian church were not held last Sunday in consequence of the absence of the pastor, Rev. William Laurie. Many of the members of that congregation attended other places of worship.

—James A. Keller, Secretary of the Centre County Pomona Grange, informs us that there will be a meeting of that organization on Thursday, November 10, at Centre Hall. on which occasion the usual sessions of the Grange will be held.

—Travel on the Bald Eagle Valley road is simply immense, and only about half enough cars are generally provided to accommodate travelers.

—One of our city exchanges remaks that the young girl who dropped a basket of eggs while flirting made a "mash."

Sad and Peculiar Death.

A little two-year and five month old daughter of Mr. John Dunkleberger, residing at Pleasant Gap, named Lucy, died very suddenly on Friday morning under circumstances most peculiar and sad. It appears that on Thursday afternoon the mother had popped some corn for her children, who were very fond of it, and gave each a handful after it had been nicely popped. They were playing about the house and eating their corn, when Lucy was suddenly seized with a violent fit of coughing and retching, which attracted the attention of the mother who went to her relief, and found that the child was choking. She did everything that was possible under the circumstances, but the child grew worse, and for a time it was thought to be dying. The mother, in desperation, ran her finger in her daughter's throat and removed the obstruction, after which she recovered. That evening the child ate a hearty supper, slept soundly at night, and arising at the usual hour next morning ate heartily of breakfast, and to all appearance was as well as ever. But shortly after breakfast, however, she was again seized by violent coughing and retching, as bad as on the previous day. Immediately a member of the family was dispatched for a physician, but before he arrived or any medical aid could be brought to the child's relief it died, choking to death from the popcorn it had eaten the afternoon before. The circumstances surrounding the case are most sad and touching, and the bereaved parents and friends have the sympathy of the entire community in their great affliction.

A Remarkable Escape.

A somewhat remarkable accident occurred on the 21st of September in the vicinity of Pennsylvania Furnace, of which Mr. John Halderman, Sr., of that place, was a victim. About six o'clock on that day he was driving a three-horse team attatched to an empty wagon across the railroad when the vehicle in which he rode was struck by two heavy-loaded truck cars which were moving at great speed down the grade between River Hill and Pennsylvania Furnace. The wagon was completely demolished and the two horses in the rear were instantly killed, the horse in front escaping with slight injury. By an almost miraculous interposition of providence, Mr. Halderman escaped with his life, but not without serious injury. He was a soldier in the late war and fought in many bloody battles, but never experienced such an escape as that. His injuries consisted of a sprained back and two contusions of the head from which he has suffered acutely ever since. It is said that parties connected with the railroad offered him $25 damages, but he, quite properly, refused to accept such a small sum. The accident was directly the result of carelessness on the part of the railroad employees, as they were employing this manner of transit for their private convenience, with no means of warning unfortunate wayfarers who might cross their path, and the railroad company is responsible for heavy damages, which we hear Mr. Halderman is making efforts to collect.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Mrs. R. H. Wait, a sister of Mrs. John Ardell, of Linn street, and with whom she has been residing for a number of years, was made the recipient of a very pleasant surprise and handsome present in the shape of a beautiful vase the other day by a number of young ladies, members of her Sunday-school class. Mrs. Waite will leave Bellefonte in a few days for Chicago, to spend the winter with her son, Mr. E. N. Wait, who is engaged in business in that city as a land broker and speculator, and this action on the part of her Sabbath-school scholars was intended as a pleasant memento and an evidence of their appreciation of her efforts for their good. The class met and called in the afternoon in a body to pay their respects to their departing teacher, but before leaving they were invited by Mrs. Ardell to remain for tea which they did, and a most pleasant and enjoyable time was spent by all parties, and which was an occasion that will not soon be forgotten by either teacher or scholars. The following young ladies constitute the members of Mrs. Wait's class: Lizzie Longwell, Martha McKnight, Ollie Tripple, Lillie Aikens, Mamie Butts, Mamie Cook, Carrie Weaver and Lizzie Hughes.

—The following brief and correct prognostication of the weather for the next twelve months has just been promulgated:

Autumn—wheezy, sneezy, freezy.
Winter—nippy, drippy, slippy.
Spring—showery, flowery, bowery.
Summer—hoppy, croppy, poppy.

—The sun rose this morning at 6:22 o'clock and will retire behind the western hills at precisely 5:06 this evening.

Personal Mention.

Rev. S. W. Beach, of Baltimore, is sojourning in Bellefonte.

Ex-Senator Peale, of Lock Haven, was in town yesterday.

Mr. John Ardell spent Friday in Huntingdon, whither he had gone on business.

Mr. Jonathan Harper is confined to his house on Thomas street with a severe attack of neuralgia.

R. M. Magee, Esq., left on mail east on Tuesday morning on a business trip of a few days to Williamsport.

The condition of Mr. Adam Waite still continues favorable, and the doctors expect to have him well in a few days.

Mr. James Schofield has been confined to his house for several days with a severe cold settled through his system.

Mr. Ed. Boulic who for several years has been residing in Nebraska, has again returned to his old home in Bellefonte.

Recorder Tobias has returned from Altoona, where he was attending the reunion of the 84th regiment, and reports having had a very good time.

We are pleased to notice that our old citizen, Mr. Harvey McClure, is able to be about again, and we hope his recovery from the affliction which confined him to his house may be permanent.

Rev. John Hewitt, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church, of this place, delivered a magnificent discourse at the morning service last Sunday. His sermon in the evening was also a very scholarly effort.

Recorder Tobias departed on Wednesday morning for Altoona, to attend the reunion of the 84th regiment, which took place in that city Thursday. "Toby" is the only surviving member of the regiment residing in Centre county.

A communication from Mr. Alfred Nicholls, of Brooklyn, N. Y., but lately of this place, informs his friends that he is very pleasantly situated in a large grocery establishment of that city. Many persons in Bellefonte will be pleased to learn of his prosperity.

Misses Ida and Celie Landis, two of Bellefonte's accomplished and interesting young ladies, departed on Tuesday morning on a visit to friends in Williamsport. Before returning they will visit Reading and Allentown, and will be absent from home several weeks.

Hon. S. T. Shugert, the senior of the Centre Democrat, with a large company of other gentlemen, departed last Monday on a railroad surveying tour, to be absent about two weeks. There will doubtless be considerable work connected with the expedition and also much pleasure.

Mrs. James Schofield is visiting at Newport, R. I. She has gone there to spend a few weeks for the benefit of her health, and will visit New York and other places of interest before she returns home. She is accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Fleck, of Philipsburg, wife of S. K. Fleck, a prominent merchant of that place.

His corpulency, Mr. Richard Harris better known by the somewhat euphonious sobriquet of "Dick," betook himself Thursday morning to Washington, where he expects to spend a week or ten days consulting with President Arthur on the advisability and wisdom of his own selection for a Cabinet portfolio, and will insist upon the Interior department as his choice. It is hinted that "Dick" is partial to this selection because of the many prospective "picnics" in store, and his peculiar fitness for entertaining the fantastically clad warriors who visit the Great Father. Secretary Dick Harris! Te, he!

Obstructions in the Street.

Persons erecting new buildings are benefiting the town and consequently have a right to very exalted privileges. But these prerogatives may be carried so far as to become a nuisance. This is likely to prove the case with those who are controling the erection of the new edifice for the use of the Centre County Bank on the corner of Spring and High streets. So much of both thoroughfares are occupied—especially High street—with bricks, motar beds, lumber, etc., that there is hardly space for a single vehicle to pass.

On Saturday night this proved distrous to a passing buggy, which came in contact with the solid pile of lumber occupying High street, much to the damage of the buggy. We did not learn the name of the owner of the vehicle, but that is not material. Greater care should be exercised in this respect in future. Either have less building material on hand at one time or restrict it to a smaller space.

—The foundation walls are now being laid for the new residence of Mr. D. M. Sturdevant, on Linn street. It will be erected on the vacant lot north of the residence of Rev. R. Crittenden.

—One of our exchanges remarks that "Hollow E'en will be the next holiday."

Colonel Wilkinson and the Woodcock.

A good joke was got off the other day at the expense of Colonel Wilkinson, in which Al. Dale and Theodore Deschner figured conspicuously. It appears that the Colonel had been setting traps for both Dale and Deschner for several days, but the joke was finally played at his own expense at an unexpected moment. He had just stepped out from his place of business the other evening for a quiet stroll down the street, when he was approached by Dale with the remark, "O! say, Colonel, have you seen the large woodcock Deschner got?" "No, no!" replied the Colonel, in great surprise and anxious to know all about it immediately he was directed to the gun shop, whence he hied himself as rapidly as his legs would carry him. He stalked in boldly and unsuspectingly, half out of breath and great drops of perspiration creeping down his face, with the remark, the articulation elevated far above the normal pitch, "Desh, show me the woodcock you're blowing so much about, will you?" "Yes," replied Deschner, with a sly wink to the dozen or more nimrods, both ancient and modern, standing about as he gently lifted a huge wooden spigot from its resting place on a barrel near by. Imagine the Colonel's consternation as his chin dropped and rested on the lapel of his coat, whilst the crowd went into violent paroxysms of laughter at his expense. But it's not safe to mention woodcock to him now.

—The Altoona Daily Sun has suspended publication, the reason as stated by the publishers is because of a lack of support on the part of the citizens of that place. The Sun was a bright and newsy sheet, and we regret to hear of this action on the part of its publishers—or rather on the part of the citizens.

MARRIED.

RICKARD—BREON—On the 13th inst., at the M. E. parsonage, Pleasant Gap, by Rev. E. W. Wonner, Mr. Joseph M. Rickard, of Cambria county, and Miss Angeline Breon, of Sugar Valley, Centre county, Pa.

HUGHES—WIAN—On the 13th inst., by Rev. G. D. Penypacker, Mr. George R. Hughes and Miss Sallie E. Wian, both of Bellefonte.

DIED.

ALLEN—On the 17th inst., at Boiling Springs, Fearon Cameron, infant son of James and Tamson Allen, aged 1 month and 28 days.

WATSON—On the 18th instant, near Milesburg, Mary, daughter of Thomas and Lucy Watson, aged 6 years, 10 months and 3 weeks.

GILL—On the 16th inst., near Pleasant Gap, of typhoid fever, Miss Ada C. Gill, aged 18 years and 5 days

LINN—Oct. 14, at Sandy Ridge, Centre county, Birdie A. Linn, daughter of Austin Linn, aged two years.

This is the second affliction Mr. Linn has met with within a year. On Feb. 26, 1881, Mary Jane Linn, aged 21 years, died of consumption. We sympathise with our friend in his irreparable loss. It is sad to see the young die. We may have as ample warning of the Destroyer's approach as can be given; we may see his arrow flying with an unerring aim for his youthful victim, and yet we cannot be prepared for the fearful change. The intimate connection which that life has with all our plans, business and habits of thought render us unable to feel at first the full weight of the blow which cuts off our hopes. The heart is so surrounded by the various webs it has woven that it is in a measure incapable of realizing for a while the terrible change such a death works. Our friend, although sorrowing now deeply, will realize more fully his great loss when day after day has passed, and what appeared like a dream at first begins to seem like a reality, and the solemn truth is comprehended that the deed is done, that his darling children can never return to him; then how will his heart sink beneath its load of grief and yield itself for a season to its indescribable sorrow. O, how painful is the death of the young! But painful as it is it should not destroy his hope, or leave him without a source of comfort. God the Father has taken these children home. He is a Father of infinite mercy, who loves His children with an everlasting love. He is love—unchanging love, impartial love, infinite love. He is also infinitely wise, and knows the best time and way for all things. His understanding is infinite; being governed by perfect wisdom and love he can do no wrong, and ordain nothing not calculated for the best. We must not think, then, that He is unkind because He takes away the young. He has a wise and holy end to accomplish thereby. There is another consideration which should comfort those who are called upon to consign the young to the tomb. Though they leave this world they are not stricken from existence, and though they are cut off from the enjoyments of time, they are not doomed to loneliness or misery. They live, and live with the Father, and are admitted to enjoyments high as their attainments qualify them to have. Angels become their instructors, the spirits of the just their companions, and the city whose builder and maker is God their everlasting home.

They have vanished like a meteor
From your dim, bewildered sight,
But their spirits, like that pilgrim star,
Tends to the source of light.—
And though thro' realms of space unknown
To mortal ken they roam,
Yet he, who marks the comet's track,
Will guide their spirits home!
